

Johnson Associates re-opens high tech real estate office

Johnson Associates office in Georgetown Market Place recently underwent a face lift and all the agents gathered Thursday morning to officially re-open the office, as Halton Hills Mayor Rick Bonnette joined with Georgetown Market Place manager Herminia Henderson, Johnson Associates owner Finn Poulstrup and John McNally of McNally Construction, to cut the ribbon. The new facility, constructed by McNally Ltd, is based on design by HOK Design and features a modern professional facility and display capability. The latest in technology is used to present Johnson's listed product from attractive property feature displays and through three public viewed video screens, featuring the multiple interior and exterior photos of their listed properties. Sellers will be given the latest of marketing exposure technology in an attractive modern facility and buyers will be able to view properties throughout the marketplace and across the GTA
