

Residents should register soon for annual April clean-up events

Roadsides littered with garbage seems to be the new rite of spring and residents have an opportunity to participate in two community-wide days to clear the trash.

The seventh annual Clean Up Halton Hills Day is scheduled for Saturday, April 21 and 20-Minute Makeover is set for the day before, Friday, April 20.

Litter Free Task Force chair Councillor Jane Fogal requests that residents and organizations register with the Halton Hills public works department, 905-873-2601, ext. 2610.

"We're still looking for groups to phone in. We have quite a few already but there's still room for lots more," she said.

Fogal says the registration will allow the Town to publish the locations of various clean-up efforts so individuals and families know where they can join in. Free garbage bags and gloves will be available from the Town Works Yard, the Acton BIA office and the Chamber of Commerce office at 328 Guelph St. in Georgetown.

For the first year, a rain date has been scheduled said Fogal— it's the following Saturday, April 28.

Schools and businesses, including Town of Halton Hills employees, can participate in the 20-Minute Makeover to clean up schoolyards and commercial areas. Fogal is hoping for 100 per cent participation from the Town's 22 schools— 17 signed up last year.

Businesses and organizations wishing to participate are also asked to contact the Public Works Department to register.

In 2006, 57 groups or residents, 20 businesses, and 17 schools participated in the Clean Up days, collecting 6,000 kg of garbage, one tandem load of scrap metal, 20 car tires and three tonnes of scrap wood.

Meeting set for April 10

Residents encouraged to fight cancellation of buses

Georgetown residents, especially all students and parents of St. Catherine of Alexandria and Christ the King schools, are being encouraged to show their objection to a recent Catholic school board transportation policy change.

Residents affected by the board's transportation policy changes of school bus cancellation in the Stewart's Mill and Arbor Glen area for the 2007-2008 school year are urged to attend the Tuesday, April 10 Halton Catholic District School Board meeting, starting at 8 p.m. at 802 Drury Lane in Burlington.

Please contact Halton Hills trustee Rosanna Palmieri for information on the policy change by e-mailing palmierir@hcdsb.org or calling 905-877-7961.
