Ruptured gas line forces downtown evacuation

Residents and businesses were evacuated from their homes Monday morning for about two hours after contractors ruptured a natural gas line in downtown Georgetown.

The break left 154 properties without natural gas for several hours.

Halton Hills firefighters responded to the gas leak on Wesleyan Dr. at about 10:15 a.m. On their arrival they were told by Union Gas officials that a 6" natural gas line had been ruptured.

Businesses and residents on Wesleyan Dr. east of the break and on Main St. approximately 200 ft. north and south of Wesleyan Dr. were evacuated.

Wind conditions in the area helped to keep gas concentrations at nominal levels and after the final valve was closed by Union Gas and fire crews verified that natural gas levels were acceptable, residents and businesses were allowed to return at approximately noon.
