Receiving athlete-of-the-year honours from Acton District High School for 2006-07 are Bearcats (from left): Mike Kovacevic (junior boys), Emma Jolly (junior girls), Whitney Carroll (senior girls) and T.J. Fry (senior boys). All are multi-sport athletes who stood out in the classroom as well as the playing field. Kovacevic starred for the Acton volleyball, basketball and soccer teams, while Jolly also played those three sports and badminton as well. Carroll was MVP of the girls' softball squad and played four years on the volleyball and basketball teams. Fry has suited up for football, soccer, basketball and badminton.

Georgetown's Christ the King High School celebrated a successful year in athletics with its annual awards ceremony last Thursday. Above, Steve Ples earned the senior boys' award for his play on the Jaguar football, soccer and basketball teams, with Nikki Salvisburg captaining the basketball and volleyball squads for the senior girls' honour.

Rebel Pride was on display last week as Georgetown District High School's annual awards banquet switched to a semi-formal format to honour the accomplishments from 2006-07. From left: Chelsea Jensen was named junior girls' athlete of the year for her efforts in basketball, volleyball and track and field; Spencer Troop's play and leadership in football, rugby and basketball earned him the senior boys' award; Lauren McCracken is the senior girls' top athlete as a key contributor to the Rebel basketball, hockey, badminton and soccer teams; Mitch Racinsky garnered the junior boys' award for his efforts in basketball, football and rugby.
