

It's back to school for adults too

For parents of school-aged children, fall means back to school, spending many hours finding and purchasing the clothes and supplies their children will need. For parents with low literacy skills, there are additional concerns:

activities.

LNH offers small group computer classes both daytime and evening for those adults wishing to improve their computer literacy skills.

Thinking of applying to college? In partnership with Sheridan College, LNH also offers a college preparation program in Georgetown. The program assists adults with obtaining accreditation in English and math which will go towards high school equivalency credit, accepted at Sheridan College for both academic programming and apprenticeships.

For more information, check out www.literacynh.org. Classes are starting soon. To register, call 905-873-2200. Literacy North Halton is a registered non-profit organization and is supported by the Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities, United Ways of Halton Hills and Milton, community agencies and individuals.

"Will I be able to help my children with their school assignments?"
"How will I teach my child how to read?"
Literacy North Halton (LNH) can help. The agency offers upgrading opportunities for adults who want to improve their reading, writing, math and basic computer skills.

Whether or not you have school-aged kids, Literacy North Halton can assist. You may be thinking in terms of looking for a new job but have no computer skills and don't know where to start? You may need to brush up on your reading and writing skills to find a job, or for everyday

Homes turn 100

Glen residents celebrated the centenary of Numbers 5, 7 and 9 Tweedle Street. Friends and neighbours were invited to join the owners of the three houses to celebrate with a barbecue and party. The three houses were built by Sykes and Ainley Woollen Mills as housing for workers brought from Yorkshire, England. In 1964 all three houses were bought by Sheridan Nurseries as housing for their seasonal workers. In 1982, the properties were sold to individual owners. Above the owners on Tweedle Street Mark and Kelly Rowe (#5); Joe and Jane Coutts (#7) and Gary Kirkpatrick and Sue Taylor (#9) get ready to pass out the birthday cake.
