

VOTE FOR NICK

OK, I've got to be careful here because the Royal Bank has loaned me a lot of dough over the years. During the World Junior Hockey Tournament, every second commercial was this 4 year old RBC repeat of Carson Minich (he never goes home either) sawing off the end of a board and sticking a cardboard girls sign on the Ref's change room at Memorial. Now for all you newcomers or non-sporting types the setting in this commercial is the oldest operating rink in North America. Halton Hills' very own Memorial Arena. Had cameras been invented we would probably have a picture of Hal Pells cutting the ribbon at the opening ceremony.

So folks, it's time for a new commercial. I recommend everybody phone local RBC good guy, Lou Maiatico, at home and ask him how to vote for Nick. Tee Hee

OK, where was I? Ah, yes, car sales. Vote for Nick, Carson, Hal & Lou, but buy or lease your new cars, trucks and Jeeps from me or buy a brand spankin' used one!

Now that the new Chrysler Canada has brought its pricing in line with the purchasing power of Hilary Clinton & Barack Obama, come see what we have to offer! Whether it's a state-of-the-art fuel miser CVT (constant velocity transmission), diesel or Flex Fuel technology throughout our line up, we have a vehicle you should consider.

Unlike the really, really smart forecasters who are predicting doom and gloom for our industry, our NEW Sales Manager predicts Georgetown Chrysler Jeep sales volume to shoot up by 200 units this year. So, guess what? His bonus structure is married to that target. You want a great deal? He's the man who wants to earn your business.

On a personal note: After a really rough ride where the bronco almost threw him off for good, Derek H. is ok. Welcome back, cowboy!
