Rhys Taylor

plays on the white Under-5 team at the Dufferin Centre. He is playing soccer for the very first time, and is having great fun. He loves to run and likes everything about this indoor soccer experience.

Once the snow is cleared, he will try his new skills outdoors!

Ward Brothers hoping for better results at pond hockey tournament

Competitively, the Ward Brothers didn't fare so well in their debut, placing 91st, despite having a former minor pro player, Kent Anderson from Bracebridge, on the roster of five players. The tournament features a 4-on-4 format with no goalies or penalties, although game "monitors" subtract goals when they witness an infraction.

This time around, Ward's team consists of his Georgetown neighbour, Darryl Jones, and two Newmarket-area residents who all play weekly pick-up hockey together in Hillsburgh.

"Now I have a big waiting list for my team because everybody wants to go," Ward said.

Roulston Lake takes on the appearance of a mid-winter picture postcard with 20 75x150-foot rinks hosting games simultaneously and the CBC will be on hand for its Hockey Day In Canada programming.

A Pond Hockey Alumni All-Star game was held at the newly built Tobique-Plex on Wednesday night. Round-robin games began Thursday evening and continue through Saturday. The final 32 teams will face off in single-elimination matches on Sunday.

A team from Boston, the Easton Express, has won the tournament four years in a row.

Under-16 Impact impressive but fall in tournament final swept through the under-18 Burlington Blaze, South Coast Wave and the Oakville Thunder in the preliminary round then beat the Brant Tornadoes in the quarterfinals and the under-18 Waterloo Predators in the semis.

Under-16 Impact

The Georgetown Impact knocked off the two-time defending national champions en route to making the championship match of the Challenge Cup under-16 girls' club volleyball tournament recently in Whitby.

Playing in the top division in the province, the Impact defeated Durham Region and the Scarborough Titans in the preliminary round while also losing to Windsor's South County.

Georgetown then took on the reigning Canadian champs from Durham, and came out firing, handing the Attack its worst game defeat in three years, 25-13. The Impact was edged 25-23 in game two, but rebounded to eliminate the Attack with a 15-10 tiebreaker.

In the semifinals, Georgetown's under-16s downed Ottawa's National Capitals 25-23, 25-20 to set up a rematch with South County in the final. The Impact took the opening game 25-23, with South County prevailing in the next two 25-19, 15-11 to claim the gold medals.
