Library launches H.O.P.P.ing service

Now it is easier than ever to find the newest books, DVDs and compact discs on offer at the Halton Hills Public Library.

With the launch of the H.O.P.P.ing service (Hot Off the Press Publications), library users can sign up to get a list of new items in popular subject areas, without ever leaving the house. All that is needed is a trusty computer and Internet access.

This automated notification service-known as an "RSS" feed, which stands for "Really Simply Syndication", offers library users a convenient way to track the latest acquisitions in subjects such as: business, gardening, travel, cookery, health, green living, parenting and interior design. There is also a list of new DVD arrivals for film buffs.

To subscribe, all you need to do is choose the "HOPping" tab found on the Library's catalogue at: www.library.hhpl.on.ca. These subject lists, which are updated regularly, are also available for viewing.

Geoff Cannon, manager of Library Public Services sees this as "an exciting and easy to use service that lets you know through your news feeder, what new items have arrived in your area of interest. This service sends information to your computer rather than you having to repeat the same subject search over and over again to check on the newest arrivals. And, in one additional step, you can place holds on any items received through this service".

Meanwhile, statistics show that registration in children's programs such as Baby Tales, Tales for Twos and Sleepytime Stories at Halton Hills Public Library, has increased by 47.6% in the last five years.

Both branches of the Halton Hills Public Library offer a variety of free literacy-building programs for babies and school-aged children.

Douglas Davey, the Children's and Youth Advocate, attributes this doubling in attendance to "outstanding staff, high quality programs and a supportive community that have come together to take the library to a new level of service. We have added more programs (over 80 more than five years ago) and offered programs that meet expressed needs. You spoke, we listened, and the results speak for themselves!"

This increase, along with increases in the number of items borrowed (41.4%), the number of questions asked (27.6%) and the number of people using the library's computer workstations (7.8%), are due to the many service improvements. These include more current titles and formats, better technology such as wireless access, a relaxing of rules, and a more welcoming environment for all ages.

Library cards are free to anyone who lives, works, attends school or pays local property taxes in Halton Hills. If you haven't been to the Halton Hills Public Library lately, drop by to see the changes.
