Halton motorists buckle up more often than rest of the province, campaign shows

Halton motorists are above average when it comes to buckling up.

Halton Regional Police Staff Sgt. Peter Hodgson said 95 per cent of Halton motorists checked during the Provincial Seatbelt Campaign that ran from April 16 to 27 were wearing their seatbelts— that's higher than the 92 per cent provincial average.

In total during the campaign, 863 people received tickets for not buckling up.

Throughout the campaign, volunteers with Communities on Phone Patrol (COPPS) checked vehicles at major intersections throughout the region.

Of the 23,900 vehicles checked, 1,350 people weren't wearing seatbelts.

Also, Educational Services officers worked with students who conducted seatbelt checks at local schools.

About 1,475 cars were checked near the schools resulting in six tickets and eight warnings being issued.

Road safety will continue to a priority for Halton Police said Hodgson.

"Although the provincial campaign is over, officers will still be on the lookout for the five per cent who still haven't got the message and fail to buckle up," said Hodgson.

CtK in running for Quantum Shift TV award

Students from Christ the King Catholic Secondary School have made it to the semifinal round of Quantum Shift TV's "Be the Change! Share the Story!" contest, along with dozens of schools across Canada and the U.S., with an opportunity to win up to $50,000 in prizes for their school.

CtK's Club Green has been proactive with recycling programs, planting trees and spreading environmental awareness, also signing an "Agreement" contract with their teachers to commit to following EcoSchool practices in the classroom.

The progress of this and other projects participating in the contest is documented in two short videos uploaded on the web at www.QuantumShift.tv/schools. The school's videos can be seen on their team page at <http://www.quantumshift.tv/schools/team.php?id=117>.

The winning schools will be announced June 1. Quantum Shift TV is a 21st Century storyteller renewing the cultural values of community, care and interconnectedness through the use of leading edge technology and citizen journalism.
