Planting Day for Dominion Gardens on Saturday

A community-based planting day to enhance Halton Hills' Dominion Gardens Park will happen on Saturday, Nov. 10.

The event is hosted by Halton Peel Woodlands and Wildlife Stewardship (HPWWS), which promotes urban forest education and public tree planting event.

In the first phase of this project an area around the eastern stormwater pond will be planted with trees and shrubs beneficial to wildlife. In addition, an educational sign will be installed offering the public commentary on the importance of urban trees and a suggested planting list.

This project is part of a larger initiative in the park to add more playgrounds, a splash pad, walking trails, garden plots, and additional trees.

Planting time is 9 a.m.

Community partners in the project are:

- Credit River Anglers Association— donation of trees (green ash, silver maple, Eastern white pine, white spruce and red oak).

- Sheridan Nurseries— donation of red-osier dogwoods which are native shrubs particularly useful for birds and animals.

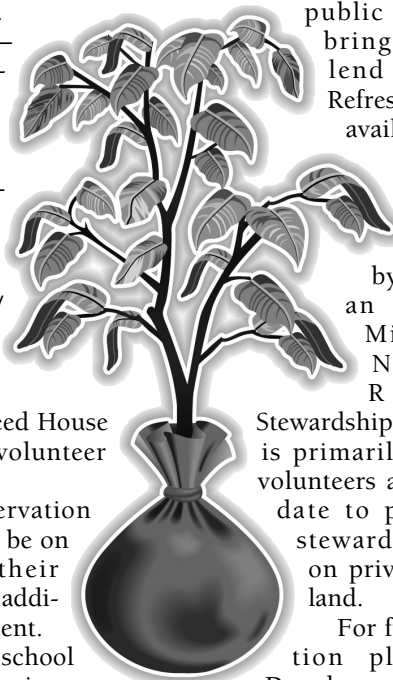

- Wal-Mart Canada— fundraising assistance

- Town of Halton Hills— supply of planting materials (compost/wood chip mulch), funding, and logistical support.

- Friends of the Old Seed House Garden— financial and volunteer assistance

- Credit Valley Conservation Authority— staff will also be on hand and have made their work trailer available for additional shovels and equipment.

In addition, local high school students will be volunteering on planting day.

All members of the public are invited to bring a shovel and lend a hand too. Refreshments will be available.

This project is being implemented and managed by the HPWWS an Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources Stewardship Council which is primarily staffed with volunteers and has a mandate to promote good stewardship practices on private and public land.

For further information please contact Derek Konieczny (HPWWS member) 905-873-0517.
