Quarry open house

Ethan McDougall, the son of Acton Site Manager Rob McDougall, greets the Dufferin Aggregates' mascot during a recent open house held at the quarry. About 350 neighbours, friends, family and elected representatives gathered to learn more about how the quarry operates and have some family fun. Guests enjoyed a buffet breakfast, toured the quarry and learned about the operations and the rehabilitation efforts. Various informational displays were available for the adults while children enjoyed the fun and educational activities, which included a 'birds of prey' show, air brush tattoos and sandbox. Submitted photo

Hairy happenings

At the recent Alcoa 'Great Canadian Head-shave Event' four employees had their heads shaved to raise funds for the Terry Fox Run. Three employees had volunteered to be shaved, but when Derek Katorsky (centre) sort of threw his 'hat' into the ring, the other volunteers, (from left) Brunhild Moraes, Raymond Young and Ted Laing jumped at the chance to shave his head. The final amount raised from the event and barbecue was $1,035. Photo by Ted Brown
