VEHICLE IMPOUND Q & A

Question:

"Leant my car to a friend. The police stopped him, arrested him and now my car is impounded. I didn't know he has had his license taken from him for an impaired conviction. What happens now?"

Answer:

All vehicle owners have a greater responsibility to ensure suspended drivers do not drive their vehicles. Any person caught driving while suspended in Ontario for a Criminal Code conviction will have the vehicle impounded for a minimum of 45 days. Impoundment applies regardless of whether the vehicle is borrowed, rented, leased or used for business.

If you choose to lend your vehicle, check to see that the driver has a valid driver's license. The key word here is "valid". Just because someone shows you a driver's license, doesn't mean they have a "valid" license. The license could have been suspended but not confiscated or returned to the Ministry.

Call 1-900-565-6555 using a touch tone phone ($2.50 will be charged to your phone bill) to ensure your friend driver license is valid. It's a whole lot easier and cheaper than trying to get you impounded vehicle returned.
