

Halton Region asks for water restrictions

Although weather conditions can vary and rain has fallen, unseasonably dry weather this spring, combined with heavy water use, has prompted Halton to request that residents minimize outdoor water use, including lawn watering, car washing and driveway washing. Flower and vegetable gardens should be watered by hand and only as needed.

Halton's Planning and Public Works staff is monitoring the Region's reservoir levels closely. If the hot, dry weather persists, it may become necessary to issue a complete watering ban.

Halton Region has an odd-even day watering by-law in effect which advises that even-numbered houses should water only on even calendar days and odd-numbered houses should water only on odd calendar days. However, since lawns only need one inch of water once a week to stay healthy, it is not necessary to water on every odd or even day, regional officials say.

For advice, please visit the Region's website at www.halton.ca/waterconservation.
