date was born in Barrie, the daughter of a farmer and raised on a farm in South Simcoe. Her early schooling took place in a one room country school house. Later she graduated from Barrie Central Collegiate, earned a B.A. degree in Latin and French from Victoria College, University of Toronto, and then secured her Master's degree in French Literature from the University of Toronto.

She is married to architect Tom Bentley and has lived in Georgetown since 1968. She is proud of her two sons who pursue active lives in the area.

Bentley was a teacher at Georgetown District High School for 32 years, teaching Latin, French, and History. She was department Head of Moderns for 14 years. When she retired in 2000, Bentley took on the challenge of being a supply teacher with the Halton Board up to this year.

Bentley has led various youth groups in church and school, and as an elder is working on various committees in her church. She enjoys the outdoors, including skiing in winter and golf in summer. In her spare time, she spends time in the library ferreting out books she loves and travelling with her husband.

Project Safe Start kicked off Tuesday

Halton Regional Police are now operating a high enforcement, educational traffic initiative that commenced on Tuesday of this week and concludes on Friday, September 14.

The project, started last year, dubbed "Safe Start," is again being undertaken to remind the driving public of the need to be courteous to other drivers and our children particularly at this time when they make their way back to school.

The project is a regional response utilizing the District Response Enforcement Units and District Patrol officers. This will maximize the effect of the project by ensuring that every available officer is focusing attention on the program.

Officers will be focusing on the five "S's":

1. Speeding;
2. Seatbelts;
3. Stop Signs;
4. School Zones;
5. School Buses.

The project is ongoing and will be maintained year 'round. Initial efforts are dubbed "Safe Start" as the project is being kicked off as children return to school.

It is designed to encourage the community to comply with the Province's legislated driving laws and ensure a safer driving and pedestrian environment.

Class list frustration

To the editor,

Just writing to express my frustration regarding the class lists. I was told by our school secretary that the list has never been available before the last day before school starts. But I am quite sure that that was not the case last year, and we were able to see it approximately a week before school started.

Just a short drive to Guelph and a jump to a different school board and what a difference. They have it so together there that the children are notified on their report cards of their teacher for the next year. I have CC'd the local newspaper and a few of the other frustrated parents who I am sure, like me, would like to know why. Why are we not allowed to know who our child's teacher is going to be until the Friday before they are scheduled to return to school.

Thank-you for your time, I hope you will be able to answer our questions and change this policy for next year.

Regards,
Christina McCauley

age they are concerned about, not to move it. Call police and report it immediately. Explosive Disposal Officers are trained experts. They have equipment to properly examine suspicious packages. Moving the package increases the risk to the recipient and to others.

Police are encouraging everyone to report the finding of any packages, containers or objects that appear unusual or out of place. Such items will require investigation and identification by a qualified police member.
