

Halton Has questions....

need to know what their local funding from the Province to ensure that growth does not fall on the backs of existing taxpayers. We think voters candidates will do to address this.”

On March 7, 2007, Halton Regional Council unanimously adopted a resolution to advise the Province that Halton and its local municipalities cannot accommodate the growth targets specified in the Provincial Places to Grow Plan unless the Province commits to providing Halton with the necessary financial tools and funding commitments. To accommodate growth required by the Province, Halton and its municipalities will need significant investment in hospital beds, schools, community services, emergency response services and roadways.

“Halton voters should consider some key questions as the October 10th election approaches,” continued Carr. “What will each candidate do to ensure that municipal infrastructure funding programs are targeted at the infrastructure required to accommodate growth? What will they do to ensure the objectives of the Fairness for Halton campaign are met? Are they willing to vote against their party if it means a better future for Halton?”

TIPPED OFF: Police seized about 5,400 marijuana plants in a joint force operation in a field on the Fourth Line, just east of Acton, on Monday morning. It's estimated the street value of the plants would be $2 million.
