

Halton celebrates Crime Stoppers month

It's a time when Crime Stoppers programs around the world can highlight the success they have had in combating crime and keeping communities safe.

Crime Stoppers Month has been celebrated annually since officially being proclaimed in September 1986 at the Crime Stoppers International conference in Edmonton, Alberta.

Canada's Prime Minister

Stephen Harper has acknowledged Crime Stoppers Month in a letter which commends the staff and volunteers associated with Crime Stoppers programs across the country.

"Crime Stoppers Month is an opportunity to raise awareness of this successful international effort, which has developed a respected and strong presence in Canada with more than one hundred community-based programs and over two hundred thousand cases cleared," the letter states.

Prime Minister

Harper also stated: "Citizens who are alert and involved are key to ensuring that their neighbourhoods remain safe, friendly places in which to live and work. Crime Stoppers is a special partnership between these concerned individuals, the local media and police, that endeavours to solve and prevent crime in our communities."

Internationally Crime Stoppers is utilizing Crime Stoppers Month to focus attention on initiatives to combat crime involving human trafficking and the continuing efforts of Crime Stoppers to bring international fugitives to justice.

Crime Stoppers of Halton will host a special ceremony on January 19 at the Halton Regional Police headquarters' building to officially mark Crime Stoppers Month and release the program's annual statistics as well as unveiling a promotional poster to assist the guns and gangs unit.

Students make schools healthier

Ontario students are being challenged to take part in the Healthy Schools Recognition Program and make their schools healthier.

Now in its fourth year, the recognition program encourages schools to pledge to do something healthy, such as:

- Offering a healthy menu alternative for the school lunch program
- Establishing a daily running or walking club

- Inviting health professionals to speak with students about fitness and teen health.

The deadline for submissions is April 8, 2010. Participating schools will receive a certificate and pennant to display in their school.

- Over the last three years, more than 3,000 schools have pledged to do more than 6,500 healthy activities through the program.
