It's less than a month 'til Christmas, time to get serious about holiday shopping. We asked people at the Acton Santa Claus parade on Saturday if they would shop locally this year, or be lured out of town by possibly cheaper prices and more selection.

Sarah Hillier, Acton
 "I tend to shop at department stores, like Wal-Mart or Toys are Us – (for) bigger things for my daughter. I grocery shop in Acton, but as for purchasing clothing and toys, I usually go out of town because there isn't enough selection."

James Hamilton
 "It is important to support local merchants – we live in a small town and if we want services, we have to support them. I will certainly shop in Acton. The new Molly store (Molly's Sweets) – the Scottish store – opened up and we also go to Giant Tiger."

Phil Marzo, Acton
 "I'll do all of it (in Acton.) For the most part, I find what I need. There are some things that are a little more expensive but there are some things that are a little less expensive, so it works out. I like to support the local merchants because they support the town."

Iain Brennan, Acton
 "I obviously like to support our local businesses, so wherever there's something that I can buy locally, I always do. For some things that aren't available in town, I'll go hopefully to someplace in Halton to support at least the Region."

Runner says thanks

To the editor,
 Thank you for printing the article about my marathon in October - 'glad you were able to pull off a picture from the website - and a great article it was. Most importantly though, the Legion thankful for Poppy support attention goes to the cancer research component of the marathon. I don't know how many thousands of dollars were raised, but if I could have even contributed to a small portion of that, my five hours and forty seven minutes of running was not in vain. Everyone has been touched by cancer, losing a loved one, a neighbour, a friend, so when an opportunity like this one comes up to once again bring it to peoples' attention, my minuscule sacrifice is worth it. Countless others have sacrificed so much more.

Dear Editor,
 On behalf of the members of Branch 197 Royal Canadian Legion, Acton, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the people and businesses of this great town of Acton for their continued support and donations during this year's Poppy campaign. You have truly shown our veterans that they will always be remembered.

Day Services a success.
Yours in Comradeship,
 John Wagg
 Poppy Chairman

Regards,
 Margaret Iutzi
