

IF HEY COSTLY

Does the grouch grow richer quicker than the friendly sort of man? Can the grumbler labor better than the cheerful fellow?

Just stop and think about it. Have you ever known or seen a mean man who succeeded, just because he was so mean?

TWENTY YEARS AGO

From the issue of the Free Press, of Thursday, February 21st, 1915

Mr. William Frank and family who have spent the past year in town, are returning to their farm in Nassagaweya this week.

The fine new Wonderland Theatre was opened on Wednesday evening to the delight of a crowded house.

Arthur Denham of Lovellville was killed by falling tree while working on the bush on the farm of Geo. Richardson, at Lovellville.

Children suffering from worms soon show the symptoms, and any mother can detect the presence of these parasites by the writhings and fretting of the child.

BUYING ON FAITH SAVES HIM MONEY

Head of Big Company Finds Trust in Printer and Receives Tangible Benefits

Another strong argument against price cutting has been presented, this time by C. D. Garretson, president of the Electric Hoop and Rubber Company, in an article in Nation's Business on "Why I Do My Company's Buying."

For several months Mr. Garretson, while still carrying on as the head of his company, had been acting also as its purchasing agent, to find out if his company had been doing its buying on the same principles advocated and followed in its selling.

"On another form we had two words printed in red. Our printer explained that if he could print the line in black he could save us $150 per hundred.

Chronicles of Ginger Farm

Written Specially for The Free Press by GWENDOLINE F. CLARKE

Last week's Chronicle should have ended—"to be continued in our next," because you couldn't possibly expect me to write and not mention the radio any more!

Not knowing anything about the programs or the artists who contribute to them, has made this last week a week of discovery. Shall I tell you some of my discoveries? Of course they won't be new to you, but I want you to know that I am sharing some of these enjoyments with you.

First, there is the morning news, which we digest along with our breakfast. Also we glance at the clock when the time is announced—it is grand having the correct time every day.

Another soul-satisfying fifteen minutes comes with Harvey Robb's organ selections, played from a department store auditorium, and I also take great enjoyment from Barbara Beattie's sales talks—not because I want to buy anything, but because I delight in her clever artistry—her way of imparting store news as if it were a confidential affair, is little short of genius.

One morning I was particularly charmed with selections from the music of some of our greatest composers, played by the U. S. Navy Band, but I got quite a shock when it was announced that the program would conclude with the National Anthem, and then they struck up the Star Spangled Banner.

Neilson's program is another musical treat. We also love the cheery whistle of Skippy, and the happy little song that introduces Orphan Annie.

There now—I hope you are not bored to tears, but I expect you are. Maybe by next week I shall be able to write about something else—our battery will probably be run down by that time, anyway!

Persian Balm—the delight of dainty femininity. Imparts a fragrant charm to the complexion. Tones up the skin and makes it velvety soft in texture.

NEAR-SIGHTED BUSINESS POLICY

For many years the local merchants have been campaigning against "mail order houses" or the buying of merchandise from any person—except the local storekeeper.

All this was a few years ago. With very short memories, the merchants to-day are doing in some measure the very thing they have asked the newspapers to fight in the years past.

Some outside printing concerns send out solicitors or advertise through the mail, cheap prices on letter heads, envelopes, statements, etc. The prices are less than the local printer's—a dollar or so a thousand.

The one great point that most merchants fail to grasp is that every dollar they send out of the community is gone.

Directly, it will mean the sale of merchandise to the printer or his employees. If money is not spent with them they will not have any money to spend.

Merchants who want local trade must patronize local industry on the basis of fair prices. It is the only way toward a good business condition and a cure for price insanity.—Bowmanville Statesman.

CANADIAN BUSINESS REVIEW

A review of business conditions in Canada during the first eleven months of 1934, issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, shows unmistakable improvement in the Canadian economic situation.

Government bond prices reached the highest point since the pre-war period. The index of commodity prices gained nearly 7 per cent. The increase in Canadian farm products prices was 15.4 per cent, indicating that the gap between farm and general prices was partly readjusted.

PARTS DEPOT

On a big arterial road outside London there is a certain crossing which has acquired notoriety owing to the number of accidents there.

Success of the Egg Laying Contest It is reported from the Canadian Egg Laying Contest, that to date mortality among the pens entered has been lower than in any other year since the beginning of the contest.

The Poultry Breeding Pen At this time of the year some thought should be given to the selection of the breeding pen. Trap nest records are the best means of selecting birds for this purpose, however, where there are not available, it is considered wise to select females of good substance, body capacity, clean cut well defined heads.

Fertilizers for Potted Plants A suitable soil for potted plants is a loam well supplied with humus, forming material by the addition of well rotted manure, leaf mould, etc.

NOT QUITE THE THING A clergyman had been asked to address a congregation of soldiers. He had never had any experience of the Army, and was rather diffident of his powers.

FOG

They were comparing ideas about foreign cities, and one man said: "London is the foggiest place in the world."

Do You Want Your Daughter To Be Pretty? Here's how one girl put roses into her cheeks and rounded out a thin face.

Mothers who are anxious for their daughters to be healthy and attractive will be interested in the story of a certain young girl who was pale, run-down, underweight, when she went to a competent physician to have her blood tested.

Thirty days later a changed, happy girl came back. She had gained nine pounds, her blood-tested almost normal in its haemoglobin content.

Charming color and soft clear skin depend almost entirely upon the blood, because the blood carries the vitality and nutriment that builds the complexion.

There is no need for so many girls to endure a sorrow, uninteresting complexion nor to remain listless, nervous and easily tired out.
