CANADIAN COPPER SITUATION

Canada is one of the world's leading copper producers, and holds a unique and somewhat strategic position among producing countries. Practically the whole of the Dominion's production, which amounts for close to 15 per cent of the annual world output, is in the form of a by-product of other base metals and of precious metals operations, principally nickel, gold, lead, and zinc. Consequently production costs are low and control of output cannot be exercised without curtailment of production of the associated metals. Canada's production of copper in 1934 established a new record of 184,000 tons, a gain of 31 per cent over the previous peak output in 1930. The chief source of Canada's copper output in 1934, according to the Department of Mines, was the copper-nickel mines of the Sudbury area. Ontario, which has been operating at record rates in order to meet the requirements for nickel in the diversified industrial markets of the world, and also as a consequence, producing the by-product metal, copper, at a rate exceeding 200,000,000 pounds annually. Production of copper from this area accounted for 57 per cent of the 1934 output. Likewise in Quebec, copper is produced mainly as a by-product of gold mining operations, and production from these sources in 1934 accounted for 20 per cent of the total output. British Columbia contributed 13 per cent of the 1934 Canadian output, and in this province also copper received secondary consideration as for some time attention has been concentrated largely on the mining of gold and zinc. Canada is a heavy producer of copper, but a small consumer, and the industry is thus dependent for its existence on its ability to maintain and to expand its markets in outside countries. In recent years the markets of the United Kingdom have been the principal outlet for Canadian copper.

FIGURE IT OUT

The young apprentice was whistling merrily. "Stop that!" shouted the foreman. "You mustn't whistle while you work." "Who's working?" queried the apprentice.

Letters to the Editor

The Free Press welcomes letters to its readers, but does not necessarily endorse the opinions expressed. All letters must be signed, but may be published over pseudonyms if so desired and specified in the letter. Communications should name the street and number in length and must be received not later than Tuesday at noon to ensure publication in that week's issue.

THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL

DEAR SIR: Do you know what should be done to all taxpayers who fuss and fume and fret about the cost of teaching music to school children? They should be condemned to sit and listen to young Halton County lifting their voices in song at the annual Musical Festival!

EDITOR OF FREE PRESS

What do we see and hear? Hundreds of young folks, eager, orderly, interested, full of enthusiasm, ready to pour out the music that is in them, filling the air with charm and glory, defying dull care with their radiance. A large church filled with boys and girls, taking their turns on the platform with easy grace and unburied orderliness, "pacing each other towards perfection." Who would not be proud of association with them? Who would not be touched by the imagination behind their sweetness and beauty?

LATE BLIGHT OF CELERY

Late blight of celery, which is occasionally wrongly called "rust," is caused by the fungus named Septoria apil Chester. It is present wherever celery is grown, and it causes heavy annual losses. It overwinters on diseased plants or refuse left in the field, and on the seed. Although it is generally abundant only late in summer, infection may take place very early, even in the seed-bed. It causes light green to grey spots, irregular in size and shape, on the leaves. It may also attack the leaf stalk, causing elongated, slightly sunken, rusty brown spots. The frilling bodies of the fungus soon appear as small black spots in the spots on both leaves and stems. Badly affected plants are stunted, unprofitable, and do not keep well. The disease may also increase in storage.

THE GAME OF SEEDS AND CROWS

The playground is the garden and half the players are seeds. They crouch upon the ground at equal distances from each other, and await the Crows (these are the rest of the players). The Crows approach in a single file, with a strutting walk. The seeds are upon all fours, and the Crows have to thread their way in and out of the row. Suddenly one of the Crows makes a grab at one of the players upon all fours. Naturally these players must be on the alert, although they do not appear so; and the instant the grab is made the Seed must leap to his feet, or dodge to avoid the Crow's touch. If he is not sufficiently quick, he must take his place at the end of the procession of Crows.

SOME WORDS FROM MONTREAL

DEAR SIR: The installation of Acton Public Library in the new building will give added facilities and prestige to that institution. While the former quarters in the Town Hall were fairly convenient and easy of access, the new location is much more in the stream of events, so to speak, and will probably, by its very presence, suggest increased patronage. A good library is a great asset in a community. In an American city of some 14,000 in which the writer lived a number of years, there was a fine Carnegie Library, heavily stocked and with an extensive spread of files of current publications, but also a large reading room. These accommodations were well utilized, and were valuable in filling up time which might have been otherwise not so well spent.

MUSIC LOVER

DEAR SIR: Do you know what should be done to all taxpayers who fuss and fume and fret about the cost of teaching music to school children? They should be condemned to sit and listen to young Halton County lifting their voices in song at the annual Musical Festival!

COLOUR IN MACHINES

Designers of machinery and factory owners to-day are learning that they can obtain greater efficiency and increase output by making things easier for workers. The result is that the customary drabness of factory interiors soon may be replaced by gay and pleasant color schemes. Progress in color, however, has been retarded by the arrival of windowless, air conditioned plants. One such factory, recently completed, has machinery painted in orange, not too bright, which has been found to have a stimulating effect on workers. Another new factory, not yet finished, is of a different type; its walls will be nearly all glass, and the machinery is to be colored in light pastels. For this reason the trend toward color in machines is not just a fad, but the outcome of industrial studies. One machinery manufacturer, for instance, changed from a gray to a bright red paint on the castings which formed a milling-machine body.

WOMEN IN AGRICULTURE

There are 213 women farmers' club in the Province of Quebec, with a membership of 8,877. Membership in poultry clubs accounts for 5,603 women who have 236,534 birds. Nearly a million and a half dozen eggs were produced by these birds of which more than 818,000 dozen were sold. Almost 7,000 of the members are also engaged in horticulture; over 5,300 are spinners and nearly 5,000 are weavers. These multifarious duties do not nearly exhaust the activities of the women farmers, for 3,265 of the club members keep 27,717 sheep, with an annual output of 137,843 pounds of wool. Women farmers growing fax numbered 1,100, producing over 78,000 pounds of fax seed and 31,538 pounds of fax. Five thousand, nine hundred and forty-seven of the women are also engaged in canning, 111 of their number specializing as can sealers. The total value of the canned products they made during the year ended June 30th, 1934, was $185,569. Four hundred and fifty-three of the women are beekeepers, attending to 2,288 hives. The value of the linen work made by these women farmers within a year was $104,993. In addition to their ordinary work, 2,740 of the women farmers kept accounts, and it would appear that these busy women spend their spare time reading the 4,222 volumes and the 6,732 pamphlets contained in the 105 libraries of the various clubs.

Guelph Moslem Loses Part of Thumb When his hand was caught in an electric cutter while at work in the plant of the Colonial Dressing, Limited, Norman Robinson, 60 Mill Street, Guelph, lost the end of the thumb on his left hand. The young man was cutting a large quantity of patterns, and was forcing the fabric through the cutter, when his hand slipped and struck the cutter, part of the digit being amputated instantly. The accident is particularly distressing in view of the fact that the young man is a musician of ability, playing several instruments, including piano. It is a machinery manufacturer, for instance, changed from a gray to a bright red paint on the castings which formed a milling-machine body.

County Chairman at Gregory

Showing at the Gregory Theatre on Good Friday (to-morrow) the star's newest Fox Film production, "The County Chairman," will be revealed to a delighted audience as perhaps WILL'S finest vehicle to date—even more marvellous, human and engrossing than "David Harum," "Handy Andy," or "Judge Priest." "The County Chairman" has been adapted from George Ade's famous stage play of a generation ago and deals with small-town politics back at the turn of the century. Their colorful personalities, their frenzied rallies, their intense feeling made of them a very different "game" from politics to-day—conducted with reserve and dignity via the radio. The star is seen as the seasoned veteran of many a campaign—the fiery war-horse of his state, who knows every family skeleton by its first name—and doesn't hesitate to use them!

Notice to Tax Defaulters

Notice is hereby given that to all arrears of taxes for 1934 outstanding on May 1st, 1935, there will be added an additional penalty of 5% in order to bring the total penalty up to 10%, and that to all arrears for previous years an additional penalty of 10% will be added as provided by statute; and also that in case of non-payment, collection will be made by distress. H. N. FARMER, Clerk. Dated at Acton Ontario, April 4th, 1934.
