EARLY METHODS OF WRITING

Man's earliest method of writing was o scratch marks upon rook or stones with a piece of sharpened flint. This was done by the people who lived in caves in prehistoric age. The first examples of writing known to the world are dots, strokes and other more complex signs engraved upon a rod of reindeer horn. In the stone, bronze and Iron ages the is spending the Easter vacation at his people drew crude symbols, characters and pictures upon rock and metal to convey their ideas and to record important events. That is, if they were writing about a man, they drew a picture of a man; and if they were desirous o Mrs. Werstein and Mr. J. Werstein, of writing about a tree they sketched a tree

There were many forms of writing, requested to comply with this by-law dating from the second stone age, on metal: wood, baked clay, (which was not very durable), wax, linen, bark, and leaves of trees and prepared akins of animals. The early Egyptians' written scrolls were done upon payprus grass with a pointed reed. The early writings of the Egyptians were inscribed upon

In the fourth and fifth century vellum manuscripts were written in broad capital letters. und there is preserved in the Vatican a specimen of this style, written by Virgil. Later came the syllable writing, and in Kathaleen Stewart, of Toronto, visited the 11th century the handwriting was small and closely written with a alone. At the close of the 12th century the clear and angular Roman writing was used. Then came the modern Gothle style. which became universal in the 13th cen-

PASSING OF THE SPINSTER

Like the Axtecs and Amazons, the "old make:" are a vanished race. A literary cearching party sent into the field for the latter by one of the woman's magazines found some evidences that they once existed and traced some legends they have been handed down from generation to keneration. There are still unmarried ladies of past marrylig age Mr. Eugene McPherson and Miss but they are no longer spoken of we Evelyn Shiels, of Toronto, visited at spinsters, contemplated sadly, made the the former's home here during the brunt of derisive wit, nor found to conceal their state as something disgraceful and unblessed. Time was when the un-Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Elliott. Frances and married woman over 30 kept quiet about her "single blessedness." Now she prochains it aloud and aloft. Of old it was hurt pride that made old maids profess preference for their lonely existence. Today many women are sincere in protestations of that sort. A number of things have wrought this social revolution. Emuncipation of womanhood contributed Industrial independence and virtual Mr. and Mrs. H. Roy Wansbrough equality between the sexes in business helped remove the old-maid stigma. The changed economic order, which placed onto, spent Easter Sunday with their millions of women in a better position to support a husband than millions of men to support a wife, aded fuel to the Mrs. Angus McDonald, Alex. and Joe. Have a Demonstration!

Then you'll understand why the Ford V-8 is called the Balanced Car. The eight cylinders give a power plant and performance that have made this car so popular with ease of driving and economy in fuel.

Added to Mechanical Performance there is the new Riding Comfort for back and front seat passengers; new larger tires and new springs to take the road shocks.

We could go on and tell you of Many Other Points that make the 1935 Ford V-8 outstanding in the car field. But Best of All, get a Demonstration. Make us prove that we have the Best Car Value in the 1935 field.
