Holloway and Terry then went out n order, to retire the side. This sort of took the wind out of Georgetown's sails, and they didn't show near as much life as they had at the start of the game Georgetown showed bad management in only bringing one pitcher along. "Pat should have been pulled in this frame but there was no relief to put in his place. This was the only bad frame he had, but it was enough to lose the game Some bad fielding also helped the local boys to some of their runs.

After the big seventh Acton was held scoreless, while the Paper Boys counted one in the eighth. In the ninth, how ever, they couldn't get a man on base, team's local paper. Each account still declares that the Peacocks are on unbeaten team. No account was carried in the Mercury, we are told, of the game Acton played with Guelph and the shut-out that Georgetown handed Guelph. The score was 4-0. We always know Kaine was a good kidder, but we didn't think he took defeat so bad that the local paper has never been told of the incident.
