$200 at Stake

It might be well for Parliamentary candidates, Liberal, Conservative and Reconstruction alike, to bear in mind the fact that standard-bearers for the Commons require to make a deposit of $200 at command of the Federal Treasury. This deposit will be forfeited in the case of candidates failing to poll at least half the total number of votes received by the successful candidate. In the case of candidates elected or who have made a good run there is of course a rebate. As matters stand there is a likelihood that no small amount of Conservative and Stevens money is destined to go into the Federal Treasury to there remain. It is possible, but not so probable, some Liberal deposits may share the same fate.—Renfrew Mercury.

Voters Without Votes

The preparation of the voters' lists in Ottawa has not resulted in the securing of as complete lists as might have been supplied had the work been executed in the districts where the electorate is known Many an elector will be keenly disappointed when he or she goes to the poll on October 14th and they And their name has been omitted. Unfortunately in for the human race to ponder over. . . . Bees know this election there is no way of securing a vote unless the name is on the list. We know of some quite prominent residents of Acton who will be without, a vote in the election on October 14th. The only ing timation given to voters to have their names on the each town. The Reeve of Arran Township, Mr. Jas. 15th. Miller, his wife and son have been omitted from the list in that district, and from all parts of the country now to do anything about the matter. If your name doesn't apply to election officials. isn't on the list you don't vote. We can't even tell you where you can secure a list to see if your name to be going to be kept until October 14th.

At Aurora the other evening Hon. H. H. Stevens made a statement that might be construed in number of ways. According to the daily press he told his audience he was willing to stand aside and urge Canadians to re-elect the Conservative Government scene of two very pleasant gatherings. for another five years if Premier R. B. Bennett can only show the electorate that the recent housing bill, passed through Federal Parliament, is a real measure of reform... Either Mr. Stevens is pretty sure of his uful gifts were received. Mr. Cecil Berry grounds, and the Premier has not, as we have noticed, taken him up on this dare. Another ques- Margaret and himself. tion prompted by this-statement is the wonder if only this one point stands between Mr. Stevens and his former leader, and if such is the case, that the breach might be easily mended. The heat of the election will, during the next week or so, draw forth some statements that will be difficult for any electorate to understand. Perhaps all of them should not be considered too seriously. After all the political speeches of these last days of the campaign will not alter the mind of the average elector.

Weather Guessers

Another question that seems about as popular at this time as the fact that the flies haven't gone yet to where they usually go in the winter time, is the weather prophets who come along with the predictions of the kind of winter we are going to experience. Of course these predictions are usually backed up by signs and symbols which have never failed and include everything from caterpillars to the birds of the air, the bark of the frees, and the yelping of wild animals. The queer part of it is that once one of these prophecies gets in circulation it is repeated so many times that it becomes regarded as authentic and another weather prophet has come and, if the prediction doesn't hold true, has usually gone-only to be succeeded next fall by more of them. After all, why not risk a guess? An unknown Indian has no reputation for prophesying to lose only in a very limited section, and likewise a woodsman from Quebec may be little known in Ontario. None of the weather prophets of the last few years have, however, rivalled the popularity of the "Chatsworth Sage," whose predictions were followed year after year, whether they are right or not.

Just the Framework

When this issue of THE FREE PRESS is in our readers' hands, the new Murray Memorial Y. M. C. A. building will have been officially opened and dedicatcd. During the weeks past we have written a good deal on this new activity-in fact we seem to have covered almost every phase that presents itself to us until the program gets under way. No doubt as we all become better acquainted with the work and possibilities of the Y. M. C. A. the years will unfold a variety-of-means of-making-this-work a greater community effort. We are reminded at this time, however, of the admonition of Dr. Best, at the laying of the corner stone last year. If memory serves us right the speaker pointed out that the building only was not the Y. M. C. A., but the spirit that enters into its activities and the actual work accomplished in the Y. M. C. A. program in the young lives of those whom it contacts. The building is formally finished and launched on its way of usefulness. We ran across this clipping the other day: "It takes 570 bees, working their whole lifetime, to produce a single pound of honey. But they do produce it. This is something enough to work together."
