Last Saturday Miss Bella Stephenson severed her connection with the Storey Glove Co., after being in the employ of that manufacturing establishment for thirty-six years. Miss Stephenson enter ed the employ of this firm in 1900 and has since that time been a valued mem-

The occasion of her retirement was made the moment when the esteem her employers and her fellow-employees found expression in the following addresses and presentations were made her as a tribute to her efficient, and faithful service. This address was read by Mr. R. R. Arnold, and the presentation of a beautiful travelling bag was made by Mr. E. L. Arnold.

Miss Isabella Stephenson:

Dear Miss Stephenson: The Directors of this Company have conferred on me the great honor to-day of paying tribute to your loyalty, faithfulness and honesty as custodian of our funds.

The great day for which you have worked, lived and saved has arrived. The picture for you has changed. Time is now yours to enjoy the sunshine and thrills of life and the world is yours to see.

As a mark of our sincere appreciation, we are presenting to you, today, a travelling bag in honor of your very pleasant association and long service to the Company.

As we pass along the pathway of life, we shall always be pleased to receive greetings from time to time. STOREY GLOVE CO. LTD.

R. R. Arnold, for the Directors January 25th, 1936 On behalf of the office staff, Miss Savage read the following address, and Miss G. Hanna presented Miss Stephenson with a pen and pencil set.

To Miss Isabella Stephenson

Dear Miss Stephenson: Now that you are severing your connection with our good old firm, we feel that we cannot let you go without expressing our thoughts and wishes for you in the days to be. How can look back on a business career of the longevity of yours and seldom does one cling to an initial position for such a period of time. Time changes all and you have seen many changes here and there in the history of our business, yet, through all, you carried on. As you go forth-to the Sunny South and to the realization of your castle of dreams in your latter days, we trust that you may be given the health and ability to enjoy each golden moment in store for you. Leisure to you will be a new-found toy and will, no doubt, be one that will take wearing to appreciate, but just treat it as you would a new bit of system and, in surprisingly short time, it will become a fitting to your glove of life. Keeping records has become so much a part of you that we cannot imagine you not wanting to be making entries here and there but your debits and credits will now be the new experiences that come to you day by day. So, as companions to those thoughts and in remembrance of our associations together, we ask you to uccent this pen and pencil set, realizing that with them go our best

"King's Scout" Badge

When the Boy Scout movement was still in its early stages, the late King George had become so interested in the scheme that he invited Baden-Powell to pay him a visit to explain the theory of Scouting. The King spent several hours talking with the Chief Scout, and as a result of that conversation it was decided to hold a Rally on the grounds of Windsor Castle for Scouts who had attained a certain high standard of efficiency. So successful was the Rally. and so impressed was King George with the type of boys who attended, that he gave them the term "King's Scouts." A badge, called the "King's Scout" badge was then issued by Imperial Headquarters, the requirements for which are the same as were the qualifications for admission to the memorable Windsor Rally.

> HOW HISTORY IS MADE BY ECONOMIC NECESSITY

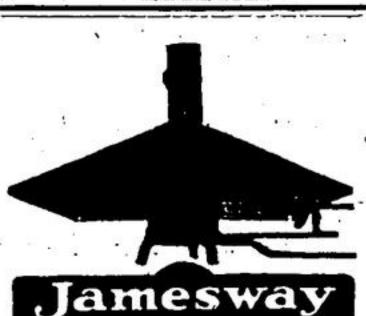

Momentous decisions are made and drastic changes put into effect, some times without being very much apparent, yet, a system hoary with age is swept away. Such is the case with the decision of the National Government of China to do away with the allver monetary standard which has been in existence in that country for centuries. What hardly makes a ripple on the surface to-day some future historian will read into the record as a momentous change. yet hardly perceptible to the people of the time. And the immediate cause is a nation across the other side of the world, mere infant compared with the years which the other counts up stretching back into the dim distant past. When the United States adopted its-silver purchase policy in June, 1934, those in authority in China began to realize that the days of its silver monetary standard were numbered and there are indications that the new monetary system will be based on the amount of fine gold that can be bought in London, England, for, roughly, 30 cents in Canadan money! And so a city that was once a Roman camp in the days of Julius Caesar on the banks of the Thames, sets the monetary values for a country which even at that time boasted an ancient civilization. China has always been a heavy purchaser of silver, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways, and had immense holdings. Of such are the warp and woof of destiny,
