BARNES—Suddenly, at the home, lot 21, concession 3, Nassagaweya Township, on Saturday, April 11th, 1936, Annie Esterbrook, beloved wife of Tansley Barnes, in her 30th year.

IN MEMORIAM

AIRDRIE—In loving memory of our mother, who passed away April 17th, 1935.

To-day we are thinking of someone Who was loving, kind and true; Whose smile was as dear as the sunshine.

That someone, dear mother, was you. You oft times said we'd miss you; Your words have proved too true; We lost the best and dearest pal; Dear mother, when we lost you.

DAUGHTERS and SONS.

LOCALS

Quite a snow storm on Tuesday, but it soon disappeared.

April showers have made this month quite true to form.

If winter would only let go, spring might get a chance to come.

The road drag has already done some good work on the roads.

The unpaved roads carry their full quota of mud these spring days.

Special values are told about every week in the ads. Read them this week and every week and save.

The whole philosophy of failure can be summed up in a question of three words, "What's the use?"

The men who try to do something and fail are infinitely better than those who try to do nothing and succeed.

Norman Brada, of Acton High School, was one of the musicians in the 125-piece orchestra last night at Massey Hall.

An freak hen's egg has been on view in The Peck Peck window. It is shaped like an extra large peanut and 2 1/2 inches in length and only a half inch wide. It was laid by a hen in the stock of R. A. McKerny, seventh line.

This week's issue of "Marketing" contains a picture of Mr. W. H. Field, of Toronto, and tells of his appointment as service manager for Lord & Thomas Advertising Agency. Friends in Acton note with interest and pleasure the advancement of this Acton boy.

The auction sale of Arthur Dobson, of Guelph Township, on Tuesday, was very successful. Although the weather was rather unfavorable, the attendance was good. An eight-year-old mare sold for $225 and a 10-month colt for $72. R. J. Kerr was the auctioneer at this sale.

FISH OIL PUT TO VARIETY OF USES

Fish, besides being consumed as food, has also other uses. Oil from herrings, pilchards, sardines, mackerel and salmon is used in Scotland and in the manufacture of soap, paints, linoleum, as a sizing for leather, for tempering steel and, among other edibles, margarine. Pilchard oil and Japanese sardine oil possess a drying quality which makes them useful in the case of paints and linoleum. Medicinal oil is obtained from the livers of cod, haddock and halibut. In addition to domestic supply foreign sources include the Southern whale fisheries, Norway, Iceland, Japan and Canada, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. There is a fish meal. White fish meal is used in Scotland in the preparation of various composite feeds for live stock and poultry and is produced in considerable quantities, chiefly at Aberdeen. Live stock feeders are commencing to realize its value and consumption is increasing. There is a potential market in the United Kingdom estimated at over 400,000 tons annually. Scotland's trade in fish meal, however, is largely an export one, many consignments going forward through the ports of Glasgow and Leith being ultimately destined to Dutch or German ports. Sources of supply are Scandinavia, Canada, India, Japan and the United States.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Judge—"Why do you wish to change your name to Charles Norman Roberts?" Applicant—"Well, you see . . . It's my wife's idea. She thinks we ought to have the same initials as are on our bath mats."

Why is A a fortunate letter? Because it is always in health.

THERE'S A CATCH

Wife: "I wish you'd give up smoking, dear." Husband: "But all great men have smoked."

Wife: "Well, just promise me that you won't smoke till you're great. I'll be quite satisfied."

SILLY

The owner of the fruit market was trying hard to make a sale. "We have some very nice alligator pears this morning," he remarked to a customer.

"How silly," laughed the very young housewife. "Why, we don't even keep a goldfish, mister."

DON'T LIKE THAT TONE

Little Susie (to her small brother): "I heard papa calling you a while ago."

Brother: "What did he say, Robert or Bobby?" Susie: "He said 'Robert'." Brother: "Then I guess I'd better go and see what he wants."
