Here's Proof Bray Pullets Lay at 5 Mos.

C. H. WINGLER, R. R. 1, Ridgeway, got 154 Bray New Hampshire baby chicks on January 7. He raised 153. By the last week of May, when they were still under 5 months old, his pullets ranged from 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 pounds. And they were LAYING.

They had vitality—only 1 died out of over 154. They grew fast and developed fully before laying, AND they were laying at 5 months.

Hatched in late June or early July, and properly handled, birds of that kind—the Bray kind—should be laying in November or early December—with plenty of size and stamina to stand heavy winter production.

At our special "end of season" prices, you can get into this money-making stock with a very low investment.

First United Church Jubilee Services

Moore very humbly referred to the religious practices of the older days such as the Family Altar and Daily Bible Reading as "Centres of Spiritual Force," spoke of the influence of such things on the lives of the people of the past and of the lull in matters of church and state, and urged that the same influences be passed on to the young folk of to-day.

"Religion is not a thing for yourself or yourself only," he suggested. "It goes out inevitably. It cannot be hidden. And so this church has a responsibility to minister to its constituency in the community. It is not the minister's responsibility alone, but every church member is called by God to take a part in this work." Continuing, the preacher painted a most dramatic picture of the spirits of the fathers of the local church hovering round at the very moment, watching, listening, probably happy at the events of the day, and appealed to the congregation to follow in their footsteps doing the will of God.

Dr. Moore, who is a son of the Acton church, having been converted there and gone out from it to the ministry, made frequent reference in his addresses to members of the old families, founders of the church and steadfast workers, and provoked many a tear, particularly in the eyes of the older listeners, as he pictured the events and loyalties of those men and women.

Naturally, a good deal of the interest of the day was centred in the new organ, which was played for the day's services by C. Franklin Legge, who designed and supervised the construction of the instrument, and who is organist and choir-master of Old St. Andrew's Church in Toronto. The organ is neither larger nor smaller, but has been expertly adapted to the space in the church's choir gallery, prepared almost forty years ago with the idea of such an organ in mind, that it seems to be an integral part of the church's furnishings rather than a recently-added fixture. The case, of handsome quarter-cut oak, in dignified English Gothic design, extends some distance into the space formerly occupied by the choir, whose quarters have necessarily been moved forward around the organ. The latter, neatly sunk in a well in the pulpit-platform, stands approximately where the old organ has been placed for years, but is appreciably lower so that the choir members can see, as well as be seen. Not yet installed, a new railing of oak, to match the organ case, will define the choir's place. It was found quite feasible to make the new arrangement without interfering in any way with the pulpit and platform arrangement, so that there was really little evidence of nervousness, except in the organ itself. Most of the folk seemed gratified in the fact that the organ proper, instead of giving a comprehensive display of decorated pipes, as is usually the case, presents only six, these being arranged in groups of three in "towers" at two corners of the case, plus a suggestion of graduated pipes along the upper edge of the oak grill work. The whole effect is dignified, restful and worshipful, as opposed to the spirit of pipe-display, which found a place in so many of the organs of former years.

The factor of tone and stop selection had been a large one in the awarding of the contract to the Legge Organ Company, so that the congregation were naturally vitally interested when the instrument was first heard publicly on Sunday morning. From the introduction to the first hymn, immediately following the liturgy of Dedication, it was evident that the instrument was beautifully toned, and this idea was sustained in the first Offertory selection when the organist played a quiet little number, "Angels," of his own composition. It was evidenced then that sweetness and purity of tone, rather than impressive volume, had been aimed at. In that offertory number the organ was stopped down almost to a whisper, and as well-evidence was given of several beautiful solo stops, which will be appreciated in such numbers in the regular services. When the full organ was used, in the hymns, there was evidence of excellent backing, for the choir and congregation, but none of that roof-shaking vibration which frequently accompanies larger organs. It was noted that the pedal organ is particularly soft and the Bourdon effects quite graceful. A set of tubular chimneys, being in the sound box, so that they may be given a "distant" or nearby effect, was a surprise to many.

The utility of the new organ came out immediately in its backing of the choir in the morning anthem. "There seems a new spirit in the group," someone said. "The undertones of the bass of the pedal organ give a foundation which improves the chorus work materially." Commenting on the evening anthem someone else said of the choir, "They sing now like a city chorus. The organ ties them together so that their work is much more effective."

Another factor of utility was shown in the accompaniments to the solos of Mrs. Legge, who had very graciously consented to act as guest soloist for the day. Those who had known her as a favorite soprano in two or three of the larger Toronto churches, were anxious that local folk should have the opportunity of knowing how appealingly sacred songs might be presented. And one only had to watch the faces of the listening folk at both services to know that her numbers, done in lovely voice and with unusually fine phrasing and expression, were not only appreciated from the

More Rambling Round in a Runabout

Saturday was the day of upsels, it taking 10 innings for Acton to nose out a win from Brampton, and Georgetown beating up Milton.

However, Acton seemed to have an off day, and Leppard's arm wasn't in any too good shape. He hardly bora down during the whole game, yet he fanned 14, but six free passes, aided by five errors, nearly lost the game.

N. Morton and Bob Anderson were the big hitters, with 3 each.

Jackson, the umpire, seemed to have an off day too, and called some raw ones for both sides.

The Acton infield is very shaky, and needs some plugging.

Our sympathies to the Georgetown Herald sports scribe. That 10-0 shutout will be just terrible news to describe to the home folks.

And to think that Acton gave them such a dose.

And, horror of all horrors! Wallers got just as bad a trimming as the rookie, Alcott! In fact, worse!

And how he liked it! The Georgetown boys took their trimming as usual—with bad grace.

With Umpire Saddon it seemed almost impossible for Duke Lindsay to strike out, even when he wanted to.

The ump, was a little late in arriving, so Dr. Prever started the game behind the plate, with a Georgetown man taking the bases.

The whole team played real snappy ball all the way through, and delighted the fans with their performance.

ridor be replaced with new springs and four blankets, two or three blankets to take the place of a mattress. The new Governor of the gaol, Mr. Frank McNiven, also addressed the Council, relative to the proposed springs and other minor recommendations.

Following the suggestions of the Governor, the entire Council made a tour of inspection of the prisoners' quarters in the gaol and were particularly impressed with the cleanliness found therein.

A Special Committee, comprising the Reeves of the various municipalities, recommended that the equalized assessment for 1936 be left the same as for 1935, and that a by-law be passed confirming the same. Objection to this was raised by Mr. Gilbert, and provoked some discussion, but it was finally moved by Mr. Byers, seconded by Mr. Blair, that a by-law be prepared to equalize the assessment of the County. After two readings it was moved by Mr. Hewson, seconded by Mr. Byers, that by-law No. 686, be now read a third time, passed, signed by the Warden and the Clerk and the corporate seal attached thereto.

Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Blair, seconded by Mr. Byers, that a grant be given towards the maintenance of certain children in private homes, rather than have them returned to the Children's Shelter.

Carried.

Mother's Allowance—June account	885.00
Old Age Pensions—May	671.67
Old Age Pensions—June	645.50
Children's Aid Society	310.00
	$3,269.60

Hospital Committee recommended payment of hospital accounts, amounting to $1,429.25.

Special Communications—Committee recommended letter from Haating County be discussed in Committee of the Whole. The letter ran in part, as follows: "That the Government be petitioned to so amend the Municipal Act that only persons who are property owners can qualify for office on the Municipal Councils and School Boards." The resolution was endorsed with an additional suggestion that a copy be forwarded to our local Member.

Moved by Mr. Hewson, seconded by Mr. Byers, that the following accounts be paid:

Finance	$3,269.60
County Buildings	112.07
Agriculture, Legislation and Railways	275.88

Mr. Leonard Chisholm addressed the Council on behalf of the Halton Ploughmen's Association, requesting assistance from the Council in the form of a grant, to enable them to carry on with the work they were hoping to do.

Moved by Mr. Harrison, seconded by Mr. Robinson, that the Halton Ploughmen's Association be given the usual annual grant of $75.—Carried.
