FRANCE BUILDS SUPER HIGHWAY

Construction of what is to be one of the most beautiful motor highways of France has been started along the coast between Nice and Cannes. The vastness of this project is indicated by the fact that the highway will be about 52 feet wide, or more than double the width of the usual French national highways. It will comprise three bridges, spanning the Var, the Gagne and the Loup, which alone are expected to cost over $1,330,000.—The actual work of construction is pointed out, present unusual difficulties, due to the character of the soil along the coast, which is strewn with rocks. The cost of the road will be borne by the State, the city of Nice and the Department which will raise special funds for the purpose.

RETAIL TRADE GAINS

Substantial gains in business were recorded in some lines of retail trade in Canada during 1935 and moderate gains in others, according to a preliminary compilation of returns received from some 12,000 independent retail merchants.

For the second consecutive year, motor vehicle dealers reported the greatest improvement in trade, the aggregate business of these firms whose sales are included in the yearly comparison showing an increase of 20 per cent. over the amount reported by the same companies in 1934. Other lines of business reporting marked improvement were, in the main, those which experienced the greatest declines prior to 1934. Radio and music store sales showed an improvement of 13 per cent.; furniture stores sales were up 11 per cent., and jewellery stores sales were up nine per cent. Grocery stores reported a slight improvement of over one per cent. Combination stores—those selling both groceries and meats—were up nearly three per cent., while meat market sales showed an increase of over six per cent. Figures for chain stores are not included. Sales of men's clothing stores were up seven per cent.; family clothing stores five per cent.; shoe stores three per cent., and drug stores four per cent.

WE DON'T KNOW ALL!

To assume the pose that we are above mistakes is absurd; better far admit most frankly before the public, that we make mistakes, many of them, and we expect to go on making them so long as we live. This will dispose of any claim of infallibility, but it will place us on much firmer ground, and help men to realize that we are just as human as they. This, in itself, does not alienate men, but rather draws them to us. Teachers, professors, preachers and, above all, parent, had better be ready to admit that they are by no means omniscient, and not by any means free from blunders. Don't try to stand on any pedestal; it isn't safe and it isn't wise.

PRINTERS' INK AND THE FARM

Canada is the chief producer of carbon black in the British Empire and most of the carbon mentioned in statistics as originating in Empire countries is in fact from Canada. The carbon is used for many purposes but principally in the printers' ink trade and the rubber industry. Printers' ink of other days, in common with many other important articles of commerce, was originally an agricultural product. The inks of the very early ages were prepared from charcoal or soot mixed with gum, glue, or varnish, much after the style of the ordinary black printing ink of to-day, the principal constituents of which are lampblack and thick linseed oil.

The Chinese ascribe the invention of ink to Tien Tschou who lived between 2697 B.C. and 2597 B.C., and it is known that the ancient Egyptians prepared and used ink at a very early date. An Egyptian document—a papyrus— with written characters of the date 3500 B.C. is still in existence. Two thousand years later the emperors of Greece, and of Rome, were wont to sign their decrees with a fourish purple ink. Since these days the numbers and kinds of ink have been many, and to-day some of the finest inks in the world are manufactured in Canada.
