—In the bicycle road race on Sunday, from Georgetown to Guelph and return, Tom Nicol, of Acton, finished in fourteenth place in the entry of twenty-eight who finished. He was third member of the Georgetown Club with which he is affiliated. His time for the race was 2 hours and 10 minutes.

FOOT COMFORT EXPERT COMPLETES COURSE

Back from Orthopedic School with Latest Information

To-day marked the return, from the Health Spot Orthopedic School in Toronto, of Mr. B. D. Rachlin, of the B. D. Rachlin Shoe Store, who has completed a course in advanced methods of scientific fitting and foot comfort. Mr. Rachlin said that he derived a great deal of benefit from this school, which specialized on the anatomy of the foot and its functioning under normal and abnormal conditions.

The subject of shoe fitting and the proper use of the new principle of Last Construction, which has taken place in the last six months, were thoroughly covered during the week's study. Mr. Rachlin is very enthused over the school and its methods and feels confident that much progress will be made in bringing comfort to foot sufferers as a result of the scientific developments in the care of feet.

A HARD LIFE

A preacher has a hard time. If his hair is white he is too old. If he is a young man he hasn't had any experience. If he has ten children, he has too many. If he has none, he should have and he isn't showing a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming. If a preacher reads his notes he is a bore. If he speaks extemporaneously he isn't deep enough. If he stays home to study, he doesn't mix with the people. If he is seen around on the streets, he ought to be home getting up a good sermon. If he calls at the home of the poor he is playing to the grandstand. If he calls at the home of the rich, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, someone could have told him how to do it better.—Strathroy Age-Dispatch.

NOW WHAT DID SHE EXPECT

Mrs. aged seven, was late home from school. Moreover, keen disappointment was written plainly on her face.

"Why, darling," exclaimed her anxious mother, "what kept you so late?"

"Mummy, a horse got sick and fell down on the street, and they went off to the horse-doctor, and I waited to have a look at him."

"And did he come, dear?" queried mother.

"Yes," replied Mary, disappointedly, "and he was only a man."

MYSTERIOUS TRIBE TRACED

In a cave in a remote part of the frontier region of Burma and Siam have been found coffins and bones of a mysterious tribe, and efforts are being made to trace their place in the world. The relics were inside a cave half-way up the sheer face of a 500 foot cliff. Scientists cannot say who the tribe were, or how the heavy coffins were transported up the steep cliff face to the caves. The discovery was made by a honey collector who had climbed to the mouth of the cave to obtain a beehive. V. P. Sondhi, of the Geological Survey of India, who was engaged in a mining survey in that part of the Southern Shan States, has learned of a wide-spread belief that the jungles in the neighborhood were invaded by primitive humans.

A TIP TO MERCHANTS

The ratio of business prosperity in any community is in direct relation to the volume of advertising carried by its local newspaper. This was the story told by a prominent Canadian business man to the Quebec Rotary Club a few weeks ago. He added that "far-seeing business men redoubled their efforts to hold and attract more business by intensifying their advertising investment. The answer to this is to be seen in the fact that they have had striking successes even during adverse times." A community is judged very largely by its aggressive spirit and this spirit is best reflected in the advertising and news columns of its own newspaper.—Amherstburg Echo.

The LETTER BOX

SOME OBSERVATIONS IN ALBERTA

Dear PEEK PRESS:

Our developments still continue to have renewed interest from time to time in this "valley" region. The great 850 barrel daily producer has induced other sinkings as near as practicable in order to secure what the reservoir may contain. True, like many another value, it has to be worked for, and it is no small chore to get a pipe down a mile or even over 6,000 feet into rocky substance. Indeed, down close to King Edward's Ranch, which is not on such elevations as many nearer here, there is strong hopes of a flow. To stand near one of these lofty derricks, and see, with the aid of immense engine and mammoth pulleys, 90 foot lengths of pipe, hauled up by dozens and stacked, or vice versa, after the "bit" has been changed, see them lowered again, is an interesting experience.

The King's Ranch has had many visitors this summer. The Lord Mayor of London, who, with his majestic trappings, visited so many cities in Canada, made, by His Majesty's request, a trip down there from Calgary, calling at "the plant" here in the workings. Also, Baron Tweedsmuir, Governor-General, went down via Regina, River, 50, also Viscount Elbank, English financier, and Premier Stevens, of New South Wales. All these passing through this great western city of Calgary, deloured to see the place the young Prince had, years ago, invested in.

Another marked visitor to Calgary, was a direct descendant, fifteenth in family line, of "Turn again, Whittington, Lord Mayor of London" of our old story book days. Although demurring any necessity for being interviewed, he revealed to the reporter that the family heirlooms of the ancient Lord Mayor were in his father's possession. Although his own immediate interests are in Nigeria, in Africa, it is not possible for whites to live only part of the year there on account of the heat, which attains to 120 degrees. Indeed, he himself is said to be much darkened thereby.

There are probably many clergymen amongst PEEK PRESS readers who, as well as many of their laymen, will be able to appraise these estimates, said to have been made by a southern "preaching elder," who has charge of a large district, which I came across yesterday:

"There is the tired layman, who will work if coaxed. But the tired layman complains to much there isn't any joy in his work for anyone. Second, there is the retired layman. He believes he has done his share and sits idly by, exercising his right to criticize. Third, there is the rubber-tired layman. He may go along if the way is clear, and the road is smooth. Then, finally, we have the flat-tired layman. He once was closely affiliated with the church, but he suffered a puncture and never recovered his wind."

However, the writer of the article, who copied the above extract, says that he hopes some day to take up the subject and himself attempt a picture of some of the really wonderful laymen he has known. If so, this present writer may forward them, fearing at present that he has been hit by at least one or two of above estimates.

Yours,
 J. S. COLEMAN.

THE LIFE WE LIVE

Dark is the day for any of us when we become absolutely contented with the life we live and the place we fill, with the thoughts we think and the deeds we do. Get down on a sheet of paper these square days to take up for emotions, the second for brain force, and hope against caution, that caution may not degenerate into cowardice. Avoid the insolence of ill-founded expectation, but keep a vigilant gaze on opportunities. Station sound sense and good judgment at the throttle, and do not allow either recklessness or lingering on the road.

If you will do this, you will no longer tolerate the gigantic error of asking too little of life. For a man's reach is higher than his grasp—or what is heaven for?—Rev. S. Parkes, Cadman, D.D.

FACING THEM

The best way to meet most difficulties is to face them. To stand still is fatal. If retreat be absolutely necessary the way is usually open; but to push on to the goal through all obstacles is usually the most satisfactory and manly course. Spurgeon said, "A man must have a backbone or how is he to hold his head up? But the backbone must bend, or he will strike his brow against the beam." Courage must be reinforced by ingenuity, and we may creep where we cannot walk upright. There is something in our very nature which appears to demand a struggle; ease brings weakness, inefficiency, effeminacy; those who drift as the wind blows never arrive.

RIDDLES

When is an idea like a clock?
 When it strikes one.

What men's never cheap?
 Venison. It is always dear (deer).

Which was the first 'bus to cross to America?
 Co-lum-bus, of course.

What is it that occurs twice in a moment and not once in a thousand years?
 The letter M.
