ELECTRIC PLOUGH USED IN ENGLAND

Electric ploughing was one of the subjects dealt with at the recent World Power Conference, held at Washington, U.S.A., and mention was made of the only electric plough in England which has been in use for the past twelve years on a farm in East Grinstead. The equipment consists of a two-wheeled carriage, upon which is mounted a 12 h.p. motor, complete with starting switch and speed reduction gear, as well as two cable drums, either of which can be driven at will by means of the motor.

The equipment is anchored in a convenient position in the field and adjacent to the overhead lines, which supply the power. The set operates on the roundabout haulage system. A double-furrow anti-balance plough is used, being drawn to and from across the field by a steel rope attached to the drums on the carriage. The speed of ploughing is from one-third to one acre per hour, varying with the nature of the soil and depth of furrow ploughed. Five acres a day is the average with such a small set.

The cost of installation was reduced by the Ministry of Communications causing an increase in the number who wanted telephones for their homes or business places. Tokyo, Osaka and other large cities are appealing for instruments.

GROUND HOGS BOUGHT BY EUROPEAN ZOOS

The ground hog (or Marmota monax) might be a nuisance on this side of the water, or a living bull's-eye for the small rifle enthusiast, but as it is peculiar to the American continent, European zoos covet it as an unique specimen. Six couples of these interesting rodents, which have been born this spring at the Carleton Zoo, near Quebec, were shipped by Canadian National Express to the Brussels Zoo. The consignment was addressed to Mr. R. Henry, Director of Belgium's Royal Zoological Garden, by Dr. J. A. Brassard, Director of the Carleton Zoo. The ground hogs, or "whistlers," crossed on the "Beaverhill," and then travelled to Brussels via Paris.
