Mr. W. P. Darby, acting as chairman, called the gathering to order and asked Mrs. Duncan Moffat to read the address:

Dear Florence and Carl:

We, a few of your many friends and neighbors, have gathered here to spend the evening with you, and to express our pleasure and offer our congratulations to you both upon this occasion of your marriage.

Although you came to the neighborhood from across the ocean, from the farland of Dear Old England, you Florence have grown up, gone to school, and spent your young womanhood in our midst, you have proved to be a true friend and neighbor, you will be missed among us. But our loss will be another neighbor's gain.

You Carl came among us quietly and shyly, and as time went by we came to know and appreciate you as a young man, of-shall we say courage, courtesy and true worth. To you both, we again offer our most earnest congratulations and good wishes for a long and happy married life. May each succeeding year find you both happier than the one before.

We would ask you to accept these gifts as a small token of our esteem and may they be a daily reminder of your old friends at home.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors:

CLARENCE WILSON
CAMERON RAMSIAH
DUNCAN MOFFAT

Milton

Pat and Mike were duck hunting. Pat saw a duck overhead and gave it both barrels. To his delight he saw the bird fall to the ground.

"Ye wasted that powder, Pat," said Mike.

Pat turned to Mike and asked, "Didn't I get the bird?"

"Sure you did, Pat, but the fall would have killed him, anyway."

VERY FUNNY

The absent-minded professor called his biology class to order shortly after the lunch hour. "Our special work this afternoon," he said, "will be cutting up and inspecting the inward workings of a frog. I have a frog in my pocket here to be used as a specimen."

He reached into his pocket and pulled out a paper sack, shook its contents on the table and out rolled a nice looking sandwich. The professor looked at it, perplexed, scratched his head and muttered: "That's funny. I distinctly remember eating my lunch."—Winfield's Winner.

WELL, REALLY?

Coalman: "That's funny! I've always managed to put forty-four bags of coal into the cellar. To-day I could only pack in forty-three."

Maids: "The master is down in the cellar."
