

REV. DELOS MANSFIELD, D.D.

And the School and Hotel.

The above named gentleman has taken his place in the history of the Highland Park Hotel and Seminary Company, having been in possession of said property for several weeks, and already what we had hoped would have been a brilliant success has ended almost too soon even to be named. Last month the News published an article written by the Doctor himself, and his advertisement, all of which indicated sincerity on his part, but in this issue we are called upon to retract all we have published in regard to both School and Hotel as far as Dr. Mansfield's connection therewith is concerned. We suppose no one is particularly hurt, as there are many hotels for the Doctor and many teachers for our schools; but perhaps so happy a combination of the D. D., the L. L. D., the caterer and the teacher—for the rising femininity is not so easy to find in the new West.

The real cause for the change in arrangements is supposed to be Dr. Mansfield's inability to carry out what he had undertaken, the Highland Park Building Company not being willing to do more than originally proposed toward the enterprise. We regret the drawback that has befallen the school enterprise, for we believe it would have been successful and of great advantage to Highland Park in many respects, and we believe that there is abundant margin to the best interests of Highland Park in the hotel if it should by any mischance be so conducted as to lose its standing as a house of first class character, which we trust the Highland Park Building Company will be as careful in guarding in the future as they have always been in the past.
