It gives the NEWS great pleasure to know that our fellow-citizen, Geo. D. Boulton, has been honored by those whose honor has value and significance, the stockholders of the First National bank of Chicago. A few years ago he was called to take charge of the Foreign Exchange department and has managed it with such marked success that there is none now superior to it in Chicago banking circles. Now the stockholders have created the office of second vice-president and put him into the office, to have charge, in addition to his foreign work of the banks, dealing with all its country correspondents. He is also made a director in the bank and outside the bank, in the elevated railroad enterprise he is elected to fill Lyman Gage's place. As a man does not get these positions of trust in a bank without being fully entitled to them, we congratulate Mr. Boulton on this proof that his ability and standing worth are recognized by his business associates, and we also congratulate the bank on its good sense and good fortune.
