

HIGHWOOD HAPPENINGS.

Emma Udem was sick the forepart of the week.

Everts Olsen is down with inflammatory rheumatism.

There will be a dance of the Y. M. C. at their rooms next Tuesday.

We understand that the children of William Whalen have the measles.

John V. Garrity raffled off his cart Saturday night. It was won by a lady named Mme. Roche.

Prof. Samuels' entertainment at the I. O. O. F. hall last Tuesday was not well attended. Therefore, though the show was good, the gate receipts were small.

The new house in Hoyt's subdivision is rapidly nearing completion. The sub-division and the Fort Sheridan artillery, are the only things in this vicinity that are booming.

Garrity & Brown will build a new meat market this spring just north of the post office, on Waukegan avenue. It will be a two-story and basement building. Mr. Garrity will occupy the second floor as a dwelling.

Did you see that Judge Hibbard inserted a want ad in last week's News? Now let us watch the result of judicious advertising. We have now a fair test of the News as a medium and we wonder if we must say, "Tried, and found wanting." We sincerely hope that Highland Park gets another baby.

We clip the following from an exchange: "Mrs. — asked her husband to nail up some []. When he refused, she beat him with her [] until he saw * * *. We believe this case is without a = He now lies in a, tose state and may soon be subject to a dis§. He must have been an * his life thus and almost put a . to his existence.

The board of trustees passed the sewer contract last Tuesday. It provides that in return for a sewer outlet on Waukegan avenue, to connect with a sewer laid in the bottom of the ravine behind Lawrence Olsen's, the village shall pay the city of Highland Park $2000 on the first cost of the sewer, then one-third of the cost of obtaining right of way, and thereafter one-third the cost of maintaining the sewer. No other important business was transacted.

Don't fail to read the poem on the fifth page, albeit you may not be a Royal Arcanumite. It has the flavor of the locality, a quality James Russell Lowell says is essential to all true poetry.

RAVINIA ITEMS.

Mr. Boyd, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Evanston, addressed the men at the Home last Sunday afternoon.

The Epworth League holds its monthly business meeting and social at Mrs. Comstock's house on Friday evening. An interesting program has been prepared by Mrs. Kellogg and a good time is anticipated.

The first telegram received over the Willoughby-Woodyard telegraph line was sent about 10:15 last Sunday morning. The boys are ready for business. Telegram blanks furnished on application. It is supposed that they will supply messenger service when it is desired.

Mr. J. C. Coe celebrated the 71st anniversary of his arrival on this celebrated globe on last Monday. A large party of friends gathered at his home to surprise him, but not finding him there, they sent in great haste to Mr. Hesler's, where he had gone to take dinner. The evening was full of enjoyment for all. Music and refreshments were plentiful, to the great credit of Mrs. Lucas. That birthday party will not be soon forgotten, either by Mr. Coe or his visitors.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

George Jones made a call Monday.

Mabel Gray says she is going to college to study agriculture. She is going to elevate the farm.

The grip has kept Miss Douglass at home part of last week, so her classes were heard by Prof. Wilson.

We had no holiday on Washington's birthday, as the scholars agreed to do without that holiday if they were given Lincoln's birthday. The Grammar school had both.

Ethel Aldrich has taken to writing poetry. So also have Isabel Clark and Mildred Mihills. They are threatening to send some of their productions to the NEWS.

During the first part of the week if a person asked George Millard a question he would say, "Shinner's ahead!" It was easy to see where his thoughts were. He thinks he could have beaten the wooden-legged man anyway.

It takes some little determination to come to school under difficulties some of the scholars encounter. Mabelle Appleton gets up at seven and walks a mile to take the train. A small party drives over from Deerfield every day. Ten young people walk up from Highwood. One comes from the fort.
