Who knows the population of Highwood?

Mr. Due, an old member of the 15th, and his wife (nee Lucy Gail) visited H. S. Gail over Sunday.

One of our city fathers is authority for the statement that the electric road will run a spur down Highwood avenue, High street, then along Prairie avenue to Central, thence south to the Golf grounds, passing Trustee Brown's.

The old house near the school house, in Evarts & Jeffries place, is being repaired. The windows, which were broken out by the school children, are being replaced and new boards are being put on around the bottom of the building.

Pastor Thoren's services in the chapel at Fort Sheridan Sunday afternoons at 2:30 will continue until further notice. That of last Sunday had an attendance of about 30. A song service was followed by a talk by the pastor, rich with suggestions to his hearers.

Radical improvements are on foot in the sub-division recently annexed. Peter Conley has in mind a $3000 building, combining a residence and barber shop, which he will erect on the present location of Hartwell's photograph gallery. Mr. Conley is an ex-soldier and has just returned from the west.

On the initiation of our next postmaster, the present office will be consigned to R. E. Winter for use as a wood shed and there will rise from its old foundations, a brand new brick edifice, first-class and modern all through, to take its place. So says Lawrence Olesen, and he ought to know.

An explanation is demanded of a part of last week's report of the "Hard Times Party." The old Mosaic law of "an eye for an eye" has long since changed in the art of type setting and the modern version is "an e for an i," or "an a for an o," or vice versa or any other way. Hence, "Hogan" for Hagan.

Since the resignation of John Hill as police magistrate over three years ago, that office has been vacant, its duties devolving upon the justice of the peace. Henry Gray, George Fitzgerald and George A. Locke were elected in the subsequent spring elections, but each failed to qualify within the specified time and so could not serve. The candidate for the office this spring is W. E. Cummings.

RAVINIA ITEMS.

Rev. E. J. Heathcote is spending his vacation here among his parishioners.

Mr. D. C. Bartlett of Chicago, addressed the men at the Home on last Sunday afternoon, and was highly appreciated.

The Epworth League meets at 7 o'clock and the preaching service follows at 7:45 Sunday evenings. All are invited to come.

J. C. Coe is building an addition on the south side of his house, which will add materially to the comfort and convenience of the residents.

The new piano arrived at the Home last Saturday, Mrs. Wightman of Evanston, having succeeded in her enterprise, much to her credit and the benefit of the men who prize her friendship.

The monthly meeting and social will be held this (Friday) evening at Mr. Geherty's. Next Sunday will be the quarterly meeting of the S. S. Missionary society. A very interesting program is being prepared and everyone is invited to come at 2:30. A collection will be taken for the cause of missions.

The sidewalk on Dean avenue has been completed as far as the Ravinia Improvement Society is going with it. It extends from the corner of Roger Williams avenue north to the city limits. The city is to finish it to Messrs. McKenzie and Comstock. The next should be an extension of the walk from the church, north on Judson avenue to Ding's and Willoughby's.

An election will be held Saturday afternoon, March 27, at the "little red school house on the hill." The question submitted by the school board is: "Do the people of district No. 5 authorize the school board to build a school house costing $3,000 on the site already purchased on Dean avenue." All citizens who have the good of the community at heart will be there on time and vote emphatically "yes."

Superintendent Erskine, of the the Baptist school, offers a prize of $1.00 to the person who will make the best practical suggestion for improving the Sunday school. Now take hold, Sunday school workers, and the News will publish the prize suggestion and the name of the prize winner. Send your suggestion, carefully and briefly written out and properly signed, to D. M. Erskine, Jr., city—no anonymous letters here; they are back numbers in this town. He will appoint a committee for awarding the prizes.
