A. O. Mason was in town Tuesday preparing his house for occupancy.

Those dozen cans of pure Vermont maple syrup from the old farm are on the road to Judge Hibbard. Only ten will be sold, it takes two to keep his honor sweet.

Fred Clow has the carpenter work on R. W. Patton's house about done. It includes several important changes with the addition of a large library on the corner overlooking the ravine and lake. This will make it one of the choicest places in the city, quiet, secluded, and a lovely spot in every particular.

Congressman Foss did his whole duty by sending every "Goldbug" voter a package or two of garden seeds. Some enterprising fellows sold their's out for a "nickel apiece". C. W. Aldridge invested in a few to carry over to old England to show those "blooded aristocrats" how we Yankees do things on a big liberal scale.

It is reported that Canon Gore, in a recent Lenten sermon in Westminster Abbey, suggested that Christian men fast during some portion of Lent, at least to the extent of giving up the use of tobacco for a week or so. Does the Canon think that men are going to lapse into a higher state of morality and civilization? He must be going daft.

Evans Bros., the grocers, had a three line local in last week's NEWS, and the paper had not been off the press six hours before they had four new customers. But then advertising don't pay, of course; those who do not advertise say so, and they know of course, for they have never tried it. They would not spend 15 to 20 cents good money for four new customers, and their folly makes it easier for our advertisers to get there.

A peculiar condition of things exist down on the "line" between Canada and Vermont. A house stood on the line, the entire family were murdered one night and the building burned: and now the authorities are trying to decide who has jurisdiction, Vermont or Canada, and meanwhile, the perpetrators escape. We remember several such houses that were built so on on purpose, as aids in petty smuggling, in which every self-respecting citizen regarded it his duty to engage.

Have you seen the new Easter hats at Miss Erskine's?

The Art League met in the school room Friday afternoon at the close of the school exercises and formed a permanent organization with the following officers: president, Mrs. H. S. Vail; vice-president, Mrs. A. P. Smith; sec. and treas., Mrs. Charles E. Maxwell; additional directors, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Bowen and Mrs. Barbour Brown. The object of the league is to furnish works of art, especially choice engravings, for the several school rooms of the city: it being the design to put such works in each room as will aid the class in that particular grade in its work. Thus copies of the great historical paintings in the rooms where the pupils are taught history, and so on. Membership fee is 50 cents per annum, and for school children, 10 cents.

Our Waukegan friends still go on in the old foggy and long since exploded theory of party politics in municipal affairs. Hence, instead of selecting the best men to represent the real issues, irrespective of party politics, the Republican party hold a caucus and nominate candidates, pro and con on the harbor issue, and the Democrats do the same. Common sense would say nominate men on that issue and go to the polls for or against the proposed harbor scheme. But with their party candidates the DeWolfites and the harbor scheme have very flattering prospects of success. The fact is Waukegan should come down to the Park and learn how to manage municipal affairs up-to-date. But then our somewhat slow Bluff City neighbors will catch on some time; we want them in the procession.
