Miss Alma Streiber has returned from a visit to Chicago.

Ortlund the laundry man, is doing a rushing business. He has had to put in extra help and get more lists printed.

Akerman J. C. Cushman returned from his protracted stay in New York Monday, and there will no longer be a vacant chair in the council chamber.

Captain O. H. Morgan has returned from his summer camp on Green Lake Wisconsin. No place like home after all captain, especially when that home is in the Park.

W. S. Warren has returned from his recent trip or vacation and is back in his old stand in the barber shop on the corner. He will give you a clean shave or nobby hair cut.

Miss M. Valentine Smith of Chicago, after a week in the quiet seclusion of Ravinook returned to Chicago Wednesday. She is an expert cyclist and made the most of her vacation.

Judge David A. Holmes returned from his California trip Monday. He ate his fill of grapes, lemons, etc., and drank in health enough to last him a long time. He looks hale and hearty.

Frank C. Clark of the Port Clinton district, is an extensive dealer in lubricating oils. The NEWS is "iled up" with neighbor Clark's preparation—hence its smooth, rapid and safe running.

Miss Alice, the young daughter of Mayor Evans, has just returned from a brief vacation and visit with relatives in Western Springs. She had a fine time, but was glad to get home and back to the Park.

Charles Streiber was 55 years old Tuesday, the 27th, and his many friends turned out to tell him of it and how wise and good he ought to be at this time of life. The whole affair was a delightful "surprise" to Mr. Streiber.

The Morton house on the Green Bay road is turning out a beauty. It will not only be a convenient, pleasant home, but it will be a good, tangible "ad" of the kind of carpenter work they do, not only for themselves but for others.

James Burns, the skillful sign painter, has hung out his own ornamental and lettered shingle in the former barber shop in Daniel C. Collins' brick just north of Freberg's. What James can't do with a brush, by way of lettering, can't be done very easily.
