CITY BREVITIES.

W. W. Boyington is around again after a siege of illness.
Rev. P. C. Wolcott returned today from a sojourn in Iowa.

The bicycle-on-the-sidewalk nuisance is disturbing the residents along the Sheridan drive between the Park and Highwood.

The four towns: Newport, Warren, Libertyville and Vernon are known as the river towns of Lake County because the Des Plaines, our only river, runs through them from north to south. There are brooks and little streams in other parts of the county. Each town has its share.
Now to build a bridge over the Des Plaines river costs much more, two or three times as much, often more even than any other stream.
Therefore we think the county board is right in adopting the plan of the county paying a part, perhaps one half the cost of these river bridges, and let the towns pay the balance.
The people of all the county need and use these bridges and we think there is no more obligation on Vernon to bridge this river than there is on the man whose farm adjoins it.
The Vernonites are not to be blamed or punished because the Des Plaines runs through their town. The county board did right.

WATER-TOWER BIRDS.

Our ornithologist, Henry K. Coale sends us the following apropos of the birds fished out of the water tower. "I went over the next morning and examined them and they proved to be the chimney swifts not swallows as commonly supposed (Chaetura Pelagica) one of our most interesting summer residents.
They had evidently mistaken the tower for an immense chimney and darted into it to be drowned below.
"Early in May these birds come up from the south in great flocks, and for several nights repair to the big chimney in the city hall, where they may be seen about dusk circling about and darting in by hundreds.
Later they scatter in pairs, and build their wonderful nests of twigs glued with their saliva to the inside of unused chimneys. They lay five pure white eggs, and raise two broods.
There are no feathers on the thighs as on most birds, and each tail feather has a long stiff bristle at the point, which helps the bird to cling to the inside of the chimney. Their color is sooty brown, and all summer we see them darting overhead and twittering. The chimney swift is about five inches in length. It ranges from the Atlantic coast to the the Missouri."
