The attention of the superintendent of streets is most respectfully called to the crossing on St John's avenue opposite the electric car shed, where a plank has given out, in fact has been broken for a year or more, and no attempt been made to replace it.

Mrs. Henrietta Peters, mother of August Peters and Mrs. Gruel, died this Friday, morning at 7 o'clock. She was about sixty-four years of age. Mrs. Peters had lived sixteen years at the Park. Funeral will be held at 11 p.m. Sunday from the United Evangelical church; interment at Northfield.

The electric road will run through cars to Waukegan Saturday and Sunday. A temporary trolley will be strung under the viaduct so that this may be accomplished. The service will be discontinued on Monday but cars will approach each side of viaduct and passengers need only to cross the viaduct on foot. It is expected that the viaduct will be completed in about a week.

Major Bacon arrived on the 12 o'clock train Saturday, to inspect the Fort, leaving on the 5 o'clock train. Everything was in apple pie order. The remaining soldiers at the Post were paid Monday.

Military mass was said on the target range Sunday by Father Vattman, the Post Chaplain, who also preached a sermon of Thanksgiving, dwelling briefly on "War and Its Horrors," and requested the audience to sing all the patriotic airs possible.

Although citizens are deprived of the pleasure of visiting the range at the present time, the gates were opened for church Sunday morning and everyone took advantage of the permission. A large crowd was in attendance and everyone enjoyed the open air sermon which was a grand one.

While three score or more of recruits were preparing yesterday to leave for Cuba to fill in vacancies in the 4th, word came that Santiago had surrendered. A cheer went up
