

A. P. DUNN,

BOOKS, STATIONERY, AND SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

The above named gentleman occupies a field exclusively his own in Highland Park because of the large and complete stock he carries and the central location of his well patronized store. Mr. Dunn established his present business 15 years ago and the continued growth of the school and literary population has brought him an increasing trade with each successive year. Mr. Dunn carries in stock, or will promptly secure any new or standard book or publication desired. This store is headquarters for school books and school supplies, a fact that should be borne in mind by parents. All of the current magazines, periodicals and papers are kept by Mr. Dunn. He also handles a complete line of stationery, novelties, toys, etc. Strict attention is paid to the cigar department and the best brands can always be found at this popular house. The proprietor is one of our best known and most respected business men and he is active and prominent in all matters of true public welfare.

JAMES LARKIN,

SHOEMAKING AND REPAIRING.

The question of footwear is one which deeply interests every man, woman and child in this community, and it is well to know just where to order and purchase such shoes as shall alike be handsome and serviceable. Mr. James Larkin, our custom shoe-maker and dealer, has been engaged in this business here since 1886 and the success which has crowned his efforts shows that our people appreciate reliable work and painstaking methods. He is a shoe-maker of long experience and undoubted skill, and pays particular attention to making fine shoes for tender feet. Repairing is a feature of this business and is done in a manner which brings more trade. A well assorted stock of men's, women's and children's shoes is carried and your inspection and trade are invited by this tried and reliable gentleman.

JOHN H. MOHR.

WEST SIDE BARBER SHOP.

Paris, although a very large and fashionable city, is said to have the poorest barber shops of any in the world. Highland Park, however, is extremely fortunate in having located within her borders a barber shop where can be obtained a first-class shave, haircut or shampoo, and we challenge the state to produce a barber who can do better or more agreeable work than can Mr. J. H. Mohr. He established this business in 1894 and operates two chairs. He is giving the very best satisfaction and is rapidly attracting the bulk of trade to his shop. Taking everything into consideration he has a strictly first-class establishment. If you are in search of a place where you will not be tortured to death but can get a nice, neat, easy shave be sure and call on Mr. Mohr, for he is the man you have been long looking for.

A. E. NORRLEN,

CABINET MAKING, FURNITURE AND UPHOLSTERING.

The success achieved by Mr. Norrlen during the eleven years of his business career in Highland Park is due to the artistic and capable manner in which he performs all work entrusted to him. His facilities for upholstering, furniture repairing and cabinet work are unequalled hereabouts and he enjoys a fine and growing trade. Mr. Norrlen is the owner of a fine furniture moving van and makes a specialty of packing and moving fine furniture and household goods. He is worthy of patronage and commands the respect of our people.

E. NELSON,

MERCHANT TAILOR, CLEANING AND REPAIRING.

Most men are judged by appearances, and in these days when shapely and well-made clothing can be secured so cheaply there is little excuse for any man looking shabby. E. Nelson, the representative merchant tailor of Highland Park, has an attractive and centrally located place of business. He carries a fine line of the best and latest patterns for men's wear, and has for three years enjoyed a large trade among the most careful and fastidious gentlemen of our town. He is a thorough and competent artist and his work will bear careful comparison with the products of the best Chicago tailors. He has a thriving trade and pays particular attention to repair work, cleaning, dyeing, scouring and alterations. Mr. Nelson is a well-known business man and enjoys universal respect.

HIGHLAND PARK LAUNDRY,

A. G. ORTLUND, MANAGER.

As cities progress and grow, and as business increases in volume, the old-fogy, slow methods are necessarily supplanted by more modern and perfect means. Highland Park boasts of a steam laundry fully equipped and perfect in operation. The steam laundry now successfully managed by A. G. Ortlund was established years ago and contains every device calculated to facilitate the prompt and perfect laundering of the work in hand, certainly all the latest and most improved washing and ironing machinery. This laundry exercises especial care in the various manipulations of the clothing to avoid rough handling, and permits the use of no injurious chemicals. This laundry gives employment to several hands. The manager is respected and popular and enjoys the patronage of our best people.
