

a first-class workman and has a comprehensive knowledge of all the details of this important and exacting business. He carries on all branches of plumbing, gas fitting, sewerage and ventilation, employing only skilled workmen and using none but the best materials. His prices are reasonable and his services entirely satisfactory, so that there is the best reason why his trade should continue to increase. Mr. Sullivan has spent his entire life time in Highland Park and his large acquaintance throughout the city is a valuable aid to him in his business as the ability and capital to make a success of any enterprise in which they might engage. Such a man is Aug. Noerenberg, the prominent mason contractor of this city. Mr. Noerenberg is responsible for much of the best construction in his line along the North Shore and he has been singularly successful in all that he has attempted. He has not only confined his operations to Highland Park but has entered into active competition for all contracts of any magnitude which have been let in this vicinity for some years. It must be admitted in justice to his judgment and of the saw, planing and shingle mills. The continued and healthy growth of the North Shore suburbs, which have their trade center at Highland Park, has created a vigorous and healthy demand for every variety, grade and class of lumber, mill products and interior finish. The contractors and builders of this vicinity are alert and progressive men and those who look to them for patronage must be able to promptly and reasonably supply any character of lumber and building material. One of the foremost merchants of the North Shore is Mr. Alexander Robertson, the extensive Highland Park dealer in lumber builders' supplies, fuel and ice. Mr. Robertson

CONTRACTOR.

The rapid development and building growth of the North Shore has brought to the front a number of skilled, capable and efficient contractors, men who had ability that he has succeeded far beyond many of his competitors. Mr. Noerenberg is a valued and esteemed citizen of this city and is an active factor in all beneficial public matters.

A. ROBERTSON,

LUMBER, COAL AND BUILDING MATERIAL

What is known in English trade circles as "timber" we of America call lumber—that is all the products hails from "the land of the thistle" which has furnished so many sturdy independent and successful business and professional men and our subject has all of the characteristics which mark the honest, rugged and canny Scot. Leaving his native land at the age of eighteen, Mr. Robertson came to America and in Canada soon found work at the carpenter trade which he had adopted. He soon embarked in the contracting and building trade for himself. Finding his surrounding unequal to his ambitions he soon went to the
