The kindergarten is again open, but the attendance is only about half the number enrolled, presumably because the fact is not generally known that the school has resumed work. Lectures of the Art League.

On the evening of Friday, the 17th, at the High School room, was held the last of this year's series of lectures delivered before the Public School Art League. This was one of exceptional interest, being a paper by Mr. W. B. Dyer on "Photography as a Fine Art." Mr. Dyer accompanied his scholarly and delightful paper with an exhibition of nearly 125 photographs, from the most prominent photographers of the country; men and women who, beginning as amateurs, have traveled on artistic lines along the road to success till now their work stands for the very best and most artistic in the land. Mr. Dyer presented, to the school fourteen charming little photographs, published by the Eastman Company, representing the best pictures taken all over the country, showing what can be done with the simple kodak.

These pictures will be preserved in the new school house, and will, it is hoped, be an incentive to the children in their work with the kodak, which many of them have.

On the afternoon of Friday, the 10th, Mrs. Edwin White Moore delivered a very interesting talk in the High School Room, to the children on Jean Francois Millet. Mrs. Moore knows how to hold her youthful audience, and the interest in her admir-
