MRS. TILLMAN DEAD.

Last Friday evening at the dying of one of our most beautiful spring days, the spirit of Mrs. L. A. Tillman winged its way to the unknown beyond. The death of this estimable lady has cast a pall of sadness over the entire community. Her case was serious from the first day of her affliction, and although everything that medical skill and good nursing could do, was done for her, her life could not be saved. The funeral was held Monday, a large concourse of friends being present to pay their last sad tribute to the dead.

The deceased's maiden name was Mary Loebeke; she was born in Cook county, Ill., at Winnetka, the 9th day of December, 1862. She was married to L. A. Tillman, October 15, 1895, living near Chicago until about six months ago, when they moved to Adams. A husband, three small children, (one only three weeks old), a mother, two sisters, and a brother survive her. Mrs. John Kline, a sister, of Highland Park, Ill., arrived Monday morning. The brother, Mr. Wm. Loebeke, of Evanston, Ill., could not come. Mrs. John Carey of this city, is the other surviving sister.

The entire community deeply sympathizes with the bereaved husband, motherless children and relatives.—Adams (Minn.) Review.

GLENCOE.

The old saw that "confidence is a plant of slow growth" must be taken cum gran solis if a transaction in Glencoe one day this week is to count. A nice looking, well dressed young gentleman called upon one of our citizens to obtain a trip off a railway ticket. He explained he was a relative of the minister, Mr. Ingraham, whom he was visiting. He would pay for the rides when he returned the ticket. Then, so the story runs, this smooth young gentleman called on another citizen and explained to him that he was visiting his uncle, Mr. Wm. Herbert Johnson; that he had bought a 25 ride ticket, but had been able to use only a few rides off it and would like to dispose of the ticket for $2.00, which was less than the remaining rides were worth. This gentleman, pleased with the manner of Mr. Johnson's nephew and glad to oblige him, handed him $2.00 and took the ticket; then the young gentleman remembered that he wanted to make one more trip to the city and asked to be allowed to take the ticket for the trip and he would pay for the rides when he came back. The request was so natural and so reasonable that Mr. Johnson's nephew was allowed his wish and he quickly withdrew. But now it appears Mr. Ingraham has not been entertaining any relative, nor Mr. Johnson any nephew, and up to this time the smooth young gentleman has not returned to explain.
