A vaudeville troupe of established reputation will hold sway at the Park theatre today and to-morrow, afternoon and evening. Among them are the following well known and talented artists: The Prince family of four quick-change artists, in character songs and national dances in costume; Miss F. Brown, a baritone soloist of distinction, in popular songs of the day; Miss Kittie Gebler, a song and dance artist of much merit, and John J. Boyd and George M. Allen, the kings of knockabout artists, in their laughable farce, a "Hot Old Time." Afternoon and evening Brindley's Imperial Orchestra will render the following numbers:

Medley of popular airs, "Cracker Jack,"

Mackey
Waltz (musician) "La Carmela"

F. M. Witmark

Mr. Whitslar's method of managing the Park has been the reason for much favorable comment, which is heard on all sides. A dime is not the open sesame to the grounds as heretofore. Mr. Whitslar has barred many objectionable characters who formerly frequented the place and has eliminated many unpleasant features. He wishes to make it a family resort, has the right idea and start and will succeed in his undertaking.

Residents who are unfortunete enough to live within hearing distance of the gate bell at Deerpath Avenue complain bitterly of the unnecessary noise. The fact that the warning bell is kept dingling almost incessantly both day and night only serves to destroy its efficacy. It has long since come to be regarded as a cry of "Wolf! Wolf!" and is no longer heeded as a danger signal. In these days of makeshift employes the North-Western is to be congratulated upon having secured the services of a man so anxious to earn his hire.
