Miss Louisa Chapin will enter Vassar college in the fall.

The new Stanton home will soon be ready for occupancy.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth early in the week.

Miss Annie Anderson has returned from her western trip.

John Crowley and Joseph O'Keefe were in town Monday.

Miss Helen R. Ryan will attend the summer school at the Chicago University.

Miss Linda Behrings of Evanston spent Sunday with Lake Forest friends.

Prof. Alick has rented his house for the summer to Mr. Valentine of Chicago.

Mrs. Ferry has rented her house to the Adamses, and will summer at the sea shore.

There was a dinner followed by a dance at the Onwentsia club house Friday evening.

Mrs. Platt, a sister of Mrs. Rumsey, died at the home of I. P. Rumsey on Monday last.

Walter J. Travis, the Oakland champion, is the guest of Cyrus H. McCormack at "Walden."

J. V. Farwell, Jr., is spoken of as a possible candidate for trustee of the Chicago public schools.

David Fales, Jr., was awarded a Master's degree by Harvard at the commencement exercises Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wheeler and family are spending the summer with Mrs. Holt, the mother of Mrs. Wheeler.

Dr. French has rented his home for the season, and Mrs. French and Miss French go west to spend the summer.

J. T. Indenieden and family have closed their north side home and will occupy the Lawrence cottage for the summer.

Peter Walker, the Onwentsia professional, took part in the contest upon the Kings' Daughter's links at Evanston last Saturday.

Mrs. J. P. Maxwell and daughters entertained a car load of Chicago friends at a lawn party Tuesday.

Mrs. J. Brown of Port Huron, Mich., accompanied by her three children, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Dickinson.

Chas. McDonald has rented one of the University dormitories and will entertain a large house party during the tournament festivities.

Mr. Leander McCormick, having purchased the McClory farm, will open a road through his farm from the Green Bay Road to his new acquisition, thereby making it more accessible.

Louis de Kerstrat is at Mare's Island with many other young recruits, awaiting the completion of the new training ship Hartford, which is to carry them on a cruise around the world.

The new pumping works recently completed at the Onwentsia Club were destroyed by fire last Monday morning. The fire was occasioned by the explosion of the gas engine used as motive power.

There was an interesting polo match last Saturday afternoon between the Blues and Reds—the Reds winning. The line up was: Reds—W. F. Andrews, W. V.

Kirkman, Walter Farwell and J. C. Evans. Blues—G. A. Seavens, W. W. Keith, M. J. Kirkman and Stanley Shields. Both teams showed themselves to be in fine condition. We will have every cause to be proud of the home talent at the forthcoming tournament.

Robert L. Smith, the son of "honorable" A. Smith, who entered at the Burke house for the week of the tournament, if good old Abe himself could look down upon the revelry I wonder what he would think of it all. Well, one thing is certain, if golf had been the proper thing in his day and he thought it worth while to play at all, he would never stop short of making a record.

Neither is there any doubt that Lake Forest will make a worthy showing at the golf tournament next week. The Poole boys, Smith and G. A. McKinlock are in daily practice on the links and will all enter into hot competition with the visiting players. And by the way, the visitors are pouring into town in alarming numbers. Gardner Hibbard of the Oakley club, J. I. Blair of the Morris Country club, and many others came on ahead to get acquainted with the course. The club house and all the cottages are full to overflowing, Ferry Hall is taxed to its utmost capacity, and every available house and lodging in town are filled with guests, anxious to get a roof over their heads at any cost. Kinsley, with a corps of twenty waiters, has taken possession of the dining room and buffet.
