We should like to beg of the "gentle readers" of the Winnetka columns a lenient judgment in regard to the many letters of local interest that receive brief or no mention in our department. We frequently receive requests that certain items be briefly referred to or left out. Even some matters, far from private or personal, at the request of the excessively modest committee-of-one, is mentioned in such a way to leave the "dear public" the sensation of having been told the news by gesture!

This reminds us of a good story heard recently. An army nurse lately returned from Cuba tells of her difficulty in understanding the language of pantomime. It was before hostilities had come to a definite end that she was startled by a visit from her Cuban laundress, who seemed in great distress, gesticulating wildly and sorrowfully as she talked. The nurse could not understand a word, but judging from the gestures much butchery must have been done by the soldiers. It seemed as if nurses had been cut in ribbons, the hospital attacked, etc., etc. The frantic nurse felt she must know the worst, so she had to arouse a very sick soldier whom she only disturbed in case of life and death. The sick man acted as translator, weakly turning on his pillow. "She says," he whispered feebly, "she says the stripes in your pink shirt have run, and she doesn't know what to do with it."

We hope this touching story may appeal to those who debar us from being explicit (!)

CHURCH BAZAAR.

The Congregational Church Bazaar held in Prouty Hall on June 30th was a decided success judging from an observers point of view. We were unable to learn the amount made financially.

The booths with fancy and useful articles for sale were in charge of Mesdames Prouty, Hyde, Thorne and McKinney. The edibles were in charge of Misses Strand and Graves and Mesdames Dale, Thurston and several others.

All manner of tempting viands for the epicure beside ordinary substantial were prepared by faithful workers for sale. Candy and ice cream tables were well patronized also. In the evening the famous "Jarley's Wax-works" were much appreciated by a large audience.

Those who took part deserve commendation for the self-control exhibited despite the humorous allu-
