The annual Scotch picnic was held Thursday in Farwell's grove. The two entertainments held each year by our Scotch citizens—the picnic each summer and concert each winter—are eagerly looked-for events. One is always sure of getting a substantial return for the price when he attends a function given by the jolly Scotts. The picnic Thursday was by far the most successful of the many successful entertainments of the kind given in previous years. The afternoon trains brought crowds of pleasure-seekers from town, and the trolley did a thriving business all day. There were bag-pipers, gorgeously arrayed in kilts and plaids, to accompany the Scotch reels and horn-pipers, while a string orchestra discoursed sweet strains for those who wished to trip the light fantastic in the most approved American fashion. Games, contests and refreshments—both liquid and solid—all served to make the event one of the most enjoyable of the season.
