The hearing in reference to the Fourth of July tandem race was held Wednesday evening at the village hall before one of the judges, Geo. H. Leslie, and the referee, F. A. Wheeler. To the surprise of all the remaining judge, Jas. C. Weart, failed to be there, notwithstanding the hearing became necessary because of his inability to take any definite stand when the award of prizes was made. There were over a dozen witnesses heard, and without exception their evidence indicated a deliberate foul. The hearing lasted until 10:30, and it took only a moment for Mr. Leslie and Mr. Wheeler to agree that there was, without question, a deliberate foul, and the race awarded to John Pikarskie and Dave Winship, and Mr. Leslie recommended that the guilty ones be debarred from all future sports in the village. Remarks were made by several strongly condemning such methods, and the general feeling was that in the future our sports would be free of such degrading influences. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Leslie and Mr. Wheeler.

The Last Sad Rites.

The funeral of the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McAllister was held in the Congregational church last week Friday in the afternoon. In a pure white velvet casket covered with sweet carnations and lilies, lay the body of Elizabeth, or "Lillie," as she was better known. A most touching and beautiful sermon was preached by the Rev. W. W. Painter of Rockford, Ills. The large number of sympathizing neighbors gathered were moved to tears by the pathos of occasion. The details of the sad accident which caused the death of a bright and charming little girl was published in this paper last week.

Lillie McAllister was born June 23, 1884, in this city. She was an active member of the Junior Endeavor society and Sunday school of the Congregational church. The sad faces of the children everywhere show that her loss is deeply felt. She was particularly cheerful and happy bringing sunshine everywhere she went and a favorite with both boys and girls. Her playmates say "Lillie was never unkind and she was true to her friends." This is good testimony. The last Sunday of her life she said, in speaking of funerals, "If anything ever happens in our family I hope the sweet flowers that come will not be wasted by burying them in the earth, but sent to the hospitals to the sick and suffering." This sounds like a prophesy and the wish was carried out. The many lovely flowers that came were sent to hospitals in Chicago, the Cook County and Michael Riese hospitals.

The family of Mr. McAllister desire to express their gratitude to the many friends and even strangers who extended kindnesses in this hour of grief.
