

The pastor of the Congregational church has prepared and sent out a card to the members of the church and Sunday school and their friends, which reads as follows: "Perhaps a New Year's sentiment, to live by the year round, may be a welcome suggestion. We have passed again the time reminding us of God's gift of gifts. I read the other day of what one person saw. 'When down on State street, midst the crowds of people looking at the beautiful decorations, I wondered,' she says, 'what motto we should have displayed. Two little words comprising only five letters seemed to me most fitting—Use Me—for we know that no greater pleasure can be given to each one of our friends than that they should be used by those who need them.' Is not this true Christ's church and of its true friends? We live in this community simply to do as Christ said He did—'I am among you as one who serves.' The list on this card suggests ways of our serving, with the church and others, some of the best interests of our village. Will you put a mark—x—at each item in the list given to indicate your wish to join or to help, or to attend the following societies and meetings?"
