Mrs. Julia Johnson a colored woman who goes out working by the day was arrested Sunday night for stealing. Mrs. Joseph Plummer brought the charge. The case was tried by police magistrate Barnett at the village hall Monday morning. Mesdames Plummer, Howells and Pope were the greatest sufferers. Railroad tickets, table linen, handkerchiefs, brooches, and diamonds—the latter she had taken from their settings—were the articles stolen. Under a promise made by Mrs. Plummer to the effect that if she confessed and returned the articles taken she would use her influence to keep her from being sent to jail, the woman confessed and was let off by paying the fine, returning such articles as she still had in her possession and leaving the village for good.

The committee appointed by the Congregational church to select a pastor gave their report at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting. The committee were unanimous in their decision that Rev. M. W. Darling of Sioux City, Iowa, was the man. After the reading of the report different members of the committee were called on to substantiate what had already been said of Dr. Darling from their personal knowledge or otherwise. The subject was most thoroughly discussed, and to draw out the opinion of all those present each was asked in turn to express his views of Dr. Darling and of giving him a call. Some felt that things were being rushed a little, as it was very difficult to decide on one hearing, but as it was not possible to hear Dr. Darling again it was finally decided to give the call and ask for an early acceptance. We must take some things on trust, and this seems to be one of them; but, after listening to the report of Dr. Darling's work, of his many sterling qualities, the high esteem in which he is held by all who know him, the prospects seem bright.

Daughter of the Elm.

A Tale of the Virginia Border Before the War.

BY GRANVILLE DAVISSON HALL.

A powerful story, recalling forgotten tragedies. A Love-Story threads a stirring recital of crime and detective work. Scene in the valley of the upper Monongahela, connecting with Pittsburg.

The Book is something more than an ordinary bit of fiction. It has a substratum of historical fact, and some real people figure in its pages. There is a vivid glimpse of American life as found in that valley forty years ago. The book-critic of a great metropolitan Western daily, who read the manuscript, says the author has "dipped his pen in the very pigments of life." The head of a leading Chicago publishing house said of it: "We have been much interested;" "the plot is clever" and "details ingenious." "The story itself is interesting and there are some capital situations."

The book is to be ready for delivery to-day (Saturday). It will be sold by booksellers or may be obtained direct from the author at Glencoe. Sent by mail, postpaid, for $1.00.
