"Non Quo, sed Quomodo."

(Not by whom, but how.)

"Who steals my purse steals that which is (surely) trash; but he filches from me my good name robs me of that which not enriches him, and makes me poor indeed."

In aspiring to become a member—through election—of the Board of Education of the Township of Deerfield on Saturday, April 14th, 1900, I did not know that I was launching so abruptly into politics, nor did I realize the requirements of a candidate—to be a pater familias and have at ones command a corps of "ward healers."

To those who sought—from some who opposed the writer's election—information concerning him his identity was concealed; place of residence mis-stated, and the origin of his candidacy falsified; and while the only letters which may be affixed to my name—the plebian V. S.—do not (on paper) class with D. D's, M. A's, B. A's, etc., I thank God that I have sufficient underlying principle to preclude me from resorting to the honorable (?) tactics indulged in by many of those who actively opposed my election.

In deference to Mr. K. R. Smoot, and in conclusion, permit me to say that though he opposed me vigorously he did not, in so far as I know, deviate from the unwritten laws governing true gentlemen, one of whom I have the honor to esteem him.

In the interest of common decency, George W. Turner,

Logan Street, Highland Park.

Miss Bangs, a former much-beloved teacher in our public schools, is to be married Tuesday evening, May 1st, at her home in Carroll, Iowa. After that date she will be Mrs. Wells.

Miss Blanche Whitley, a noted soloist of Mifflinburg, Pa., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Levin this week.

The Baptists of Waukegan have called Rev. T. G. Briggs to their vacant pastorate. He is from Minnesota and Europe, and is expected to accept and enter on his work at once.

Levin is an expert on French and Father Time clocks. Clocks called for and delivered. At A. P. Dunn's News Store.

George Hutchinson, who has been town clerk of Waukegan ever since Black Hawk was mayor, is still at his post keeping the records.

Chas. Patchen carried his goods to far-off Montana this week and left with his family this morning for his frontier hen ranch. Success to you, "Charlie."

The public library was moved into the new building Thursday, so that now you will go there for your books and then you will see how nicely the rooms have been fitted up.

Schneider & Cook will be glad to have any one bring back any work which was done by them which has proven unsatisfactory. They will be pleased to repair same free of charge.

Herbert F. Evans, the business manager of The News, has been in disposed part of this week; but he was taken up to the poll: Tuesday and cast his first vote for "home and native land."

We are informed as the last form goes to press that the figures on page one of the school election are incorrect. They should be: Pease's majority, 23. Next week we will give the figures by precincts.

James McDonald has got into his neat new store, where he is selling groceries of the same all high-grade quality. The public need not be told that Mr. McDonald's scales weigh sixteen ounces to the pound every time, and he don't charge anything extra for being in the new store. In fact, he is going to clean out one line of goods at much reduced rates. Watch for his "ad" to that effect.

The cadets at the Military Academy are planing to give their annual Military and Athletic exhibition next Saturday evening, April 28. The exhibition is given for the benefit of the Athletic Association. No admission is ever charged for their football or base ball games, and the boys are compelled to take this method to support their team. Last years exhibition was very entertaining and this years will if anything exceed it: Those interested in the work of the school should not fail to attend. Tickets at drug stores.

Julius Laegler, the Highwood druggist, finds that his growing business demands a larger place. He has therefore rented the well-known Umbehaun store on the corner, which is now being thoroughly overhauled and transformed into an up to date drug store. Not only will this give Mr. Laegler more room but one of the most eligible sites in the city. The place also has the advantage of being in both Highwood and Highland Park, so he can put up prescriptions to suit the tastes and needs of both urban and suburban patients and ailments. He has ordered a new soda fountain, and there will be none finer between Chicago and Milwaukee, and the beverages served will be of the same high quality. Call and see for yourself soon after May 1st.

Winnetka.

Mrs. C. G. Bolte has been ill the past week.

Miss Nelson is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Nelson.

Miss Bessie Cook was the guest of Mrs. Oldfather this week.

Miss Winnie Spackman has returned from a visit to South Chicago.

Mr. Frank Ferris made a brief visit this week to his sister, Mrs. C. E. Hall.
