One of the jolliest parties ever held in Winnetka was given to the members of the Congregational Church, Sunday School and their friends on Hallowe'en. The church parlors were beautifully decorated with festoons of yellow and brown crepe paper and artificial pumpkin blossoms, while a number of boughs and beautiful leaves completed an effect that was at once sombre and effective. The room was entirely lighted by jack's lanterns and barn lanterns. Several Hallowe'en games were played and enjoyed by young and old. Among other attractions, were a ghost, a giant, a night wolver, a Dutch doll and a fortune teller. If noise is any sign of success, this party was truly the event of the year.

The band boys made their first public appearance and did very well.

The Jubilee.

The Ebenezer church folks celebrated the Centennial of the Evangelical church last Sunday, by special services and discourses morning and evening. Rev. H. Hintz discussed the "Beginning of the Evangelical Association in Illinois" in the morning and Rev. H. J. Kiekhoefer Ph. D. in the evening spoke of the "Genius of the Evangelical Association."

The music for both services was choice and inspiring, being furnished by the Northwestern college male quartette, Messrs R. C. Stoll, A. Butzbach, D. H. Wing and George Schmid. The floral decorations were profuse, the most noteworthy being the figures "100" indiering the year of history recorded in blue and white, very striking and significant.

The attendance was large, the interest well sustained and as a whole it must be accounted a grand success eminently gratifying to the Ebenezer folks and their friends and it will not be without good local results in the future. Such events are more than a passing interest and they concern those beyond the immediate circle of the church of the church or society responsible for the celebration.

THE TWIN BALLOTS.

Along in November, when chill was the weather, Two ballots were cast in a box together. Two ballots were cast in together: They nestled up close like brother to brother, You couldn't tell one of the votes from the other, You couldn't tell one from the other.

CHORUS: They were both rum votes, And sanctioned the license plan; And one was cast by a jolly old brewer, And one by a Sunday school man.

The Sunday school man, no man could be truer— Kept busy all summer denouncing the brewer. All summer denouncing the brewer. But his ardor-cooled off with a change of the weather, And late in the autumn they voted together, In the autumn they voted together.

The Sunday school man had always been noted For fighting saloons except when he voted; For temperance except when he voted. He piled up his prayers with a holy perfection, But knocked them all down on the day of election, But knocked them all down at election.

The foxy old brewer was cheerful and mellow; Said he, "I admire that Sunday school fellow, I admire that Sunday school fellow. He's true to his church, to his party he's truer; He talks for the Lord, but he votes for the brewer, He votes every time for the brewer.

ANOTHER ELECTION ODE. BY ROBERT BURNS, SR.

It's sometimes beneficial To hear of honest men; Of how they count all things but loss If thereby heaven they gain. The two I wish to speak of Are known to every one, Their names are Mark, the "Palmer," And Saint William, of Canton.

Time was when Saint or Palmer Was a goodly, pious man, But in these later times he's modeled On a rather different plan. He gives his time to politics, And by combinations bold He crushes out the people's life And gathers in the gold.

Now Saint William, although foolish, And lacking much in sense, Being patron Saint of Republicans, Is a man of influence. For undoubtedly you've noticed, If you ever took the pains, That the boss is more than often NOT The man who has the brains.

When you want to catch a sparrow And get it without fall A good plan is to sprinkle Some salt upon it's tail. But the holy Mark has a surer scheme Republican votes to land It's a little "palm oil," well rubbed in Upon the voter's hand.

Saint William took a contract In the island of Luzon To free the niggers over there From the haughty Spanish Don. So he trained his galling guns And with raking deadly fire, Sent the Spaniards to perdition Or to join the heavenly choir.

When he got the poor black devils free And the Spanish grip was broke He gave them other shackles And a newer fashioned yoke. When the blackamoors seemed hurt at that Saint William he did say "By our gracious Lord if you say one word There will be h-I to pay."

Now Solomon or some wise man Declared it to be so That the root of all that's evil Is the substance known as "dough." But Saint William he gets up and swears With an oath so bad and bold T'was only silver Solomon meant He didn't refer to gold.

Saint William says he is convinced That the country sure will bust, If Bryan should be successful With his blows aimed at the trust. For of trusts he is the Patron Saint They are his special care He knows it's death for them to breathe Pure Democratic air.

They are two curious fellows, Saint Bill and Palmer Mark, Their ways are like the Chinese Being shady, strange and dark. And if you are perceptive And your eye is clear and cool, You can't but see their wolfish shapes Though they masquerade in wool.

INDEPENDENT

Of any party or incorporation, but work for the best interest of the people. Levin, the jeweler, third door from the postoffice.

The American People Spent for Drink Last Year $9,069,249,832.

This money was an absolute loss to the men who spent it. They received no valuable thing in exchange for their cash.

It was not only a loss, but an actual damage. It impaired their wage-earning ability; and impaired their productive ability.

It caused a loss to every other industry by reducing the drinker's ability to buy other things.

Their drinking made harder times for the grocer, the butcher and the baker, whom they did not pay and could not patronize.

The amount of last year's drink, if spent for the necessities of life, would give work in shop, factory and field to 1,649,586 men.

It gives work in producing raw material and in manufacturing drink to only 300,901 men.

Closed gin mills would mean a chance to earn a living for 1,348,685 of the men who are now hunting a job.

A vote for the Republican party is a vote for "booze" in the dinner pail.

A vote for the Democratic party is a vote for a dinner pail full of "booze."

A vote for the Prohibition party is a vote to close the places where "booze" is sold and for plenty of food in the dinner pail and upon the table of every working man.
